Incident #101 -- Bravsburg, Pennsylvania -- 4 July 1943

There is no astronomical explanation for this incident.

The date of occurrence, 4 July 4, suggests that the object seen might have been a part of some celebration -- for instance, a lighted balloon, or even a "county fair" type of balloon.

Or there may be a much simpler explanation for the incident: the observer was very close to the ale very [illegible] airport. Does the airport have record of either pilot balloon or small aircraft in the air at the time of the sighting? Perhaps the object seemed to stop it also changed direction, the stopping may have been merely the effect of perspective.

This incident does not appear to have any relation to Incident #101.
