Incident 248 -- Sharon Base, Chilling Islands -- 17 October 1950

The limited information in the description of this incident seem to be explained referring to the trail and explosion smoke left by a firewall. The white exhaust trail extending some one to ten miles, the "flare-like" terminal burst, the estimated altitude, and the color and size of all concur in assuming this sighting to a firewall. The time of day of the observation is also in agreement.
