Mike Curie, NASA Commentator: And we have first motion of the shuttle carrier aircraft and space shuttle Endeavour beginning to thunder down the Shuttle Landing Facility runway 1-5.

Heading to the southeast, taking to the skies for one last time from Kennedy Space Center.

And wheels up, officially at 7:22 a.m. EDT.

Space shuttle Endeavour soaring atop NASA's Shuttle Carrier Aircraft, about to begin a 20-minute flyover of the Space Coast area.
