Flight commentator: Dragon separation confirmed. Michael Andrews, commentator: And there it is. We have a successful deployment of our

Dragon spacecraft on its way to the International Space Station. You currently can see some of that unpressurized cargo that resides in the trunk is exposed to the vacuum of space. With Dragon deployed, the next major milestone will be the deployment of the solar arrays as Dragon makes its way to the International Space Station.