Hello my name is Denise Calderon and I'm here working with the shuttle program.

I'm an intern and I've been here for two months. I remember seeing the shuttle take off from California. It was just so inspirational. It actually inspired it was one of my inspirations to work here at NASA today. As you see I'm here and it's just great. Being an intern now being in college and being part of the shuttle program in its ending time.
