solar arrays on the Russian segment of the station one of its radiators and vent valve ports from the Vaz Duke and electron systems that both remove carbon dioxide and generate oxygen for the Russian segment of the International

Space Station