I think it's critically important and it's really impressive that at long last on the mall we're going to have a museum that's dedicated to the history and culture of people of African descent here and in the United States. I flight jacket that I did I gave them was actually a jacket that flew with me and more importantly it has each of my four crew patches so it actually represents my four journeys to space it has an American flag on it and and again it just it represents my history or my period of time serving the nation as an astronaut in space program.
