My name's Larry Liou, a Project Manager at NASA Glenn Research Center.

I manage science projects, especially earth science projects.

Right now, we use our sensors on aircraft to monitor the harmful algae blooms in Lake Erie.

We hope to study how to use our sensors, and how do we use the data to clearly tell where the harmful species are, and hopefully the sensors can be used in the future for other scientific investigations as well.

Pride Month means a special time for celebration. Celebrating our differences, celebrating the LGBT lifestyle and choice, celebrating the acceptance we have for each other, then we can only, by accepting each other, produce a productive society and harmonious society.
So it is a special time for us to share, to talk about LGBT, and to get to know LGBT.

I feel fierce when I worked for underdogs, for the people who are disadvantaged, may they be a member, be members of my family, members of the society, or animals, innocent.

animals often are the object of aggressors, or abuse, I feel most energetic and fierce, you may say, when I work for the benefit of them.

I house many abandoned animals in my, you know, myself, I have 7, 8, no, 6 animals, and I also donate regularly to humane societies, and APL, Animal Protection League, and, you know, just, and a general advocate for equality for animals.

My superpower is unconditional love, and unconditional acceptance.

I feel it’s only, it’s only with that energy in my mind that I’m acting and thinking off from it then I can be the best.

And there's no magic, there's no, any dramatic things I need to do, but I do believe continue... to look at light, following that energy, life will be good, and I can be the most efficient and effective being a human being.

In 10 years, I most likely will be retired.

I hope to be on my sailboat a lot more with my puppies, with my animal children, maybe go out to the ocean and see other places.

I like to visit my children, my nephews and cousins in Taiwan, where I came from, or any other parts of the world.

I'd like to donate more time, working, working for the benefit of underdogs, whatever the groups they may be.

I know animals, for sure, will be one.

That's what I see in 10 years.
