

Ho hum! A UFO cost me my fella

£10 LETTER

WE ASKED: Have you ever seen a flying saucer or had an amusing experience when you thought you had? £10 goes to the sender of the first letter and £2 to each of the others.

I WAS having a goodnight kiss and cuddle with my new boyfriend by the back gate.

He looked up to the sky and muttered romantically: "Your eyes are like the stars above."

I looked up too—and suddenly a brightly-lit object flashed across the sky, humming loudly.

I screamed and ran indoors and my boyfriend fled. I never saw him again.

So maybe, like the comets in the history books, my UFO was an ill omen.

Mrs B. JAMES, Madeley, Shropshire.

I HAVE seen flying saucers nearly every day for a few weeks now. When I tell my mother I haven't found a job yet, she flings anything she can find at me.

If the Martians did attack, it would seem quiet after this.

C. A., Crosby, Liverpool.

Arab omen

I WAS in Arabia the night before Egyptian President Nasser died and I saw a bright light flash across the sky.

It seemed to spell out the three Arab letters which mean sadness.

N. M., Birmingham.

OUT driving with my husband one night I saw a cluster of lights in the sky. They drew nearer and hovered over the car.

A spotlight beamed down on us and the car's oil warning light came on. As the "visitors" moved away my husband checked the car and found we had run out of oil, though he had topped up the engine that morning.

Mrs M. MAY, Manningtree, Essex.

AS I cycled along a country lane I spotted a flickering yellow light in a dark rectangular object in the sky.

I stared at it in amazement, hit the kerb and came off the bike.

As I landed at the foot of a lamp post I realised that what I was looking at was a faulty street-light.

BILL LEVETT, Snodland, Kent.

Spiderman

AS I hurried to work early one morning, something swept across the sky—and then reappeared going in the opposite direction.

I stopped to watch it and, as it hovered in front of me, I noticed that it had a number of legs.

Then I turned my head and it moved again, in a swinging movement.

My UFO was a tiny spider which was hanging on to the top of my spectacles.

Mrs E. B., East Dulwich, London.

EARLY one cold September morning I saw a large glowing object in a field beside the road.

I turned and ran as fast as I could. But next day I went back to the field and found four large rings burnt into the grass.

J. G. EADES, Pontefract, Yorks.

Pane full

MY brother showed me photographs he had taken of two flying saucers and I was absolutely convinced by them.

But later he confessed that he had cut out pieces of cardboard, stuck them on the window pane and photographed them.

Miss E. BROWN, Chelmsford, Essex.

IT was snowing as I put out the milk bottles—and rolling along the garden path towards me was a red shiny thing.

I slammed the door in terror. But then I decided that UFOs do not roll about on garden paths. I grabbed an umbrella, went out and prodded it. It exploded with a bang.

It was a big red balloon.

Mrs M. LAMDEN, Chertsey, Surrey.

MY parents were terribly strict, so when my husband and I were courting, we used to drive to a local common for a kiss and cuddle.

But one night, as we sat in our spot, a brightly-lit flying saucer raced across the sky and we drove home in terror.

I was white-faced and shaking as I walked into my house and my mother asked me what was wrong.

I couldn't tell her where I had been and what I had seen, or she would have been furious about my "carrying on."

Mrs R. C., Cheshire, Cheshire.

WHILE I was on duty at a U.S. airbase in Germany I saw a brilliant white light hovering over the runway.

As I watched with about 75 other men, a smaller green object and then a similar red one detached themselves from the light and streaked away.

Finally, they returned and the whole object disappeared. The episode was picked up by radar and recorded on film.
