

Space riddle will go to court

A COURT case against the mighty American secret service may prove that Spacemen landed on Earth in 1947.

Several people claim they saw six small humanoid creatures in a crashed "spacecraft" at Roswell, New Mexico.

They say CIA men took the bodies and the wreckage to a top security area.

And now the witnesses are alleging a cover-up by the CIA in a case under the Freedom of Information Act.

Their claims are revealed in a book called The Roswell Incident, just published by Granada at £5.95.

One of the co-authors is Charles Berlitz, who created a sensation with his book about the Bermuda Triangle.
