

In a sensational, mind-boggling discovery, leading space researchers have concluded that many UFOs are actually living creatures!

Incredibly, these bizarre beings — called "zeroids" — can make themselves invisible and even change size and shape at will.

Excited experts say the zeroids are super-intelligent life forms that have been visiting Earth and roaming through the universe for billions of years — frequently appearing as bright balls in the sky.

Investigators say zeroids:

- Often look astonishingly different to each observer because they can telepathically project any appearance they want — from glowing lights to golden-haired spacemen.

- Flash across the sky at tremendous speeds, making "impossible" 90-degree turns and disappearing at will.

"After years of research, interviews with hundreds of credible eyewitnesses and actual personal sightings, which I photographed, I am totally convinced these creatures exist," declared eminent UFO researcher and author Brad Steiger.

Dr. Franklin Ruehl — a nuclear physicist, aerospace consultant and expert on extraterrestrial life — declared:

"There's a wide body of scientific evidence supporting the presence of such life forms. These zeroids are intelligent creatures who are able to survive in space."

Researchers base their startling conclusions on solid scientific evidence. They say zeroids have been tracked on radar, photographed with special equipment and detected with sensitive instruments that pick up electrical energy and heat given off by the space creatures.

Zeroids are composed of pure energy, say experts, and they are capable of fantastic feats.

"They can appear and disappear at will and change their shape and size whenever they want," said Steiger. "They're a unique life form which indicates a highly advanced intelligence."

The sky creatures also have the amazing ability to project images directly on the minds of men, added Steiger. He recalled an astonishing case in Wisconsin where three people observed a zeroid at the same moment — "and all three saw it as a different creature.

"One of the witnesses saw it as a hideous apparition out of a science fiction movie, with waving tentacles and bulging eyes. Another witness saw it as a little green man.

"And the third observer said it was a beautiful space being, with golden hair and glowing eyes, who talked of peace and love."

Veteran UFO investigator Vincent Gaddis, author of "Mysterious Fires and Lights," told The ENQUIRER: "Infrared photographs (which detect the heat given off by the zeroids) leave me in no doubt these sky creatures exist. There have been many, many authentic firsthand eyewitness reports."

Zeroid expert Richard Toronto — a science writer and UFO researcher — says he's taken at least 25 infrared photos of the creatures in the past five years.

"They can make sudden 90-degree turns at high speed and erratic zigzag motions," he said.

Paranormal researcher John White — former director of education for the Institute of Noetic Sciences, a research center founded by ex-astronaut Edgar Mitchell — has investigated the zeroid phenomenon for several years. "There's no shortage of incontrovertible evidence that these creatures exist out there," he said.

"They've been measured on sensitive electromagnetic detectors when nothing else was visible to the naked eye. They've even been picked up on Air Force radar."

Dr. Ruehl says the incredible space creatures are made of "pure energy." And since energy cannot be destroyed, "these creatures are immortal."

The zeroids are also "super, super intelligent," he marveled. "Nothing is beyond their power. They can make themselves completely invisible. They can also change their size, from microscopic to gigantic, and can change their shape."

Added Steiger: "They can become luminescent at will. And they can switch off instantly. That is what leads to reports that glowing UFOs 'shot away' at incredible speeds. They don't shoot away — they just become invisible."
