Something Was Sighted

UFO's on the McKenzie? Some people thought they saw them earlier last month when the Northern Lights put on an impressive display for some Oregon residents. But when the scientists took over, their explanation carried more weight.

Yet there are people living in the Vida area who feel that last Thursday night's sky held more than just easily explained natural phenomena. They're not sure just what they saw except that it was out of the ordinary.

At approximately 8 p.m., the silent blue, yellow and green lights made their appearance above the trees. Both their silence and erratic movements caused people to be suspicious especially when barking dogs added to the effect.

The colored lights were seen to rise and descend over the valley floor a number of times before disappearing into the west. The Lane County Sheriff's Department was summoned to investigate but their report could only state that the object wasn't located.

Was it something from out of this world? None of the observers was willing to go that far but they were sure they'd never seen anything like it before.
