Spaceships that fly out of the human brain...

scientists came out with explanations for the UFOs, such as strange blobs of light caused by geophysical stresses, these lights remain unknown in their nature, so remain as UFOs.

It is true that there are still those who believe in extra-terrestrial spaceships, and preach as such, but it is becoming more accepted by UFO researchers that the flying saucer / spaceship / alien visitor stories do emanate from the human brain either through hallucination or some other psychological process.

It is also accepted by most that the light-in-the-sky UFO as seen by thousands is probably some as-yet-not-understood natural phenomenon, and investigatory work being carried out by groups such as PROBE, and UFO-INTERNATIONAL (Based in Bristol) is adding to this data.

It is also wrong to say that Warminster's celebrated flying saucers were faked. The hoax involved one case only. Most UFO researchers are aware of this incident, and they are also aware of the hundreds of other Warminster reports.

The Warminster UFOs could be explained by the very same geological process that was featured in Horizon but merely dismissing the whole history of sightings because of one hoax is not only narrow minded, but unscientific.
