MPs' POSER RW OVER E.T.

ALL will be revealed about ET in the Commons today...but it's unlikely the cosmic film favourite will phone home about it.

Scots Labour MP George Foulkes wants to know what international agreements on extra terrestrial bodies Britain is party to.

But he was keeping mum over the reason why he is asking the question, which he has tabled for answer by the Foreign Secretary.

The Ayrshire MP's original question on extra terrestrial matters was bombed out by Commons officials.

But he rephrased it and convinced them there was an international agreement on celestial bodies.

Last night, Mr Foulkes — who has campaigned against the spread of space video games—said:

“Many of my fellow MPs are curious why I'm asking this question, but they'll just have to wait and find out.”
