60 million ETs living amongst us

MILLIONS of space aliens live here on earth — and you may be one without knowing it.

Experts believe there may be as many as 60 million humans descended from extraterrestrials. Some know their heritage and acknowledge their kinship to their ancestors.

Best-selling author Brad Steiger from Phoenix, Arizona, who has written more than 80 books, says he is one. So, he adds, is his wife, Francie, a researcher.

Lou Wright, a nationally-known psychic from Denver, Colorado, who often contributes to GLOBE, says she's another "star person" along with her husband, paranormal researcher Dick Deubel.

Steiger says he learned in 1968 that an unbelievable 60 million star people are scattered around the world. At that time he and his wife were quizzing psychics worldwide to find the source of their unusual powers.

"We stumbled on a consistent profile," he says.

Then he realized that he and Francie matched it, too.

"We all appear to be normal," Francie Steiger told GLOBE. "We include doctors, lawyers, nurses, psychologists, clergymen and even military leaders."

Steiger says star people share such common characteristics as personal charisma, an unusual blood type and a particular set of dreams and fantasies.

Many star people have physical problems — genetic legacies from alien ancestors setting them apart, say the Steigers.

They add that you may be a star person if you have these characteristics:

- Ability to get along on very little sleep.
- Lower-than-normal body temperature and blood pressure.

- Extra or fused vertebrae, usually in the neck or lower back, and extra ribs.
- Hypersensitivity to electricity or electromagnetic fields.
- Chronic sinus trouble.
- A feeling that your mother and father are not your real parents.
- An urgent feeling that you have an important goal or mission.
- Unusual talents in specialized areas such as art, music or science.
- Unseen or imaginary companions during childhood, or continuing contact with angels, spiritual teachers or alien intelligences.
- An experience around the age of five in which beings who appeared to be humans gave you information, guidance or comfort.

● A serious accident around 12 that made you a loner. Those were programmed for star people, says Steiger, to set them apart from ordinary earthlings.

"In a few years, all star people will know who they are," Francie Steiger adds.

"We were put here to be ambassadors and guides for earthlings, and the time is almost here for us to perform those duties."

Some of these ET sons and daughters say they are on a goodwill mission to usher in a Golden Age that will arrive before the year 2000. One of them, Michael El-Legion, who lives in Scottsdale, Arizona, says there are a number in Hollywood.

"William Shatner, Stephen Spielberg and George Lucas are just some of the star people who have been sent here to help pave the way for our new awareness," says El-Legion, who claims that he himself is from a planet in the constellation Orion.
