

TRIPLE STAR STORY

POTHLER DISCOVERS TROGLODYTE COLONY

Ace British potholer Dave Gentree has discovered a tribe of sub-human troglodytes living in a subterranean "city" deep beneath Brinborough Peak below the famous "Thunder Chamber" at the base of the "Brinborough Bore."

During a recent descent of the Bore a fall of rock revealed the entrance to a tremendously deep shaft down which the intrepid underground explorer went as soon as the necessary tackle had been lowered to the Thunder Chamber.

Within half an hour of starting his descent Dave signalled urgently to be hauled back and when he regained the Chamber he reported having seen a colony of "gorilla-like creatures" apparently living in caves hewn in rocky shelves on the edge of a vast lake fringed with some form of vegetation. Dave also said that at the most distant end of the lake there was a faint glow as of fire from some underground volcano.

Another potholer made the descent to confirm that Dave had not been a victim of hallucinations and arrangements are now being made for a group descent in which I shall take part.

Posted to FSR
by a reader
(not named) in Harlow, Essex, on 18/1/84