

DOWN THE RUSHY GLEN : Members of a psychic research group yesterday undertook an exploration at Cottingley Dell, near Bradford, close to the scene where in 1917 two young girls supposedly took photographs of fairies. The results convinced Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, but many years later one of the participants said the pictures were faked. However, uncertainty remains in the minds of some-

People, back page. Picture by Denis Thorpe