UFO DROPS DAVE IN DRINK!

Alien scare nearly drowns him

By JIM OLDFIELD

HAPPY drinker David Littlewood nearly drowned as he wandered off home after a night out—because he was looking for little green men.

Father of four David saw mysterious coloured beams in the sky, peered upwards to see if they were from UFOs—and walked straight over a dockside into deep and smelly water.

David, 32, who cannot swim, clung desperately to the dock wall as a pal raised the alarm and rescuers threw him a life belt to haul him out.

Only then did he learn the truth of his close encounter with death. The lights were part of a Star Wars-style laser show beamed from the roof of a hotel in Hull, Humberside, to advertise a new disco bar.

Phoned

And police revealed that EIGHTY other worried people phoned to find out if the lights were from UFOs.

David, who went to hospital for a check-up after his ordeal, said: "I went under twice.

"I thought my time had come. I was in for about ten minutes, but it seemed like a lifetime."

David, of Dumfries Walk, Hull, landed in hot water with his wife Michelle after his ducking.

He said: "When my pal rang to tell her what had happened, she thought it was a trick so we could stay out longer."
