

HOUSTON, TX CHRONICLE, NOV. 12, 1986

Light probably meteor

A red-glowing light with a tail that flared across the sky in the Southeast prompted searches in several states for traces of a possible meteor or other space object, but nothing was found, authorities said. The light was spotted about sunset Monday over parts of Tennessee, Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi as it streaked westward. Aviation officials said it was probably a meteor.

SCOTT PARKER
VIA COURT-I