Bright light sighted

MIAMI (AP) — Residents of Florida's Atlantic Coast reported seeing a flash of brightly colored light streak across sky late Thursday, the second such sighting in less than a week.

Residents from Melbourne in central Florida to Delray Beach, north of Miami, called police departments, newspapers and radio stations shortly after 9 p.m. CST to report the brilliant light traveling from south to north.

A spokesman with the Palm Beach County Emergency Management department said it was probably a meteorite and attributed the changing colors to the burning off of different minerals.
