

'ELLO UFO! COPS SPY A JELLY IN THE SKY

By SYLVIA JONES

A LAUGHING policeman's smirk turned to wide-eyed wonder when he answered a midnight call from a schoolgirl astronomer.

He found himself gazing at a saucer-shaped UFO, dazzling in colour and slowly changing shape "like a swimming jellyfish" as it moved across the sky. The astonished officer radioed in and TWO colleagues in Kensington, West London, arrived.

They took one look, radioed in and another FIVE coppers turned up.

The eight spent 40 minutes tracking the UFO through binoculars and a telescope which Zena Sfeir, 16, had mounted on her doorstep.

Blobs

Zena said: "They were all prepared to treat it as a joke, but you should have seen their faces when they all saw it. They were astounded.

"It was shimmering and first looked grey-green with pink blobs.

EXCLUSIVE

"When it turned round completely it seemed an electric blue colour with flashing lights. It was the most incredible sight I have ever seen."

Astronomer Patrick Moore reckons the Saturday night sighting was probably the planet Jupiter.

But the goggle-eyed policemen beg to differ.

And the object has been officially reported as a UFO at Kensington station, where a spokesman said: "The officers saw it long enough to be completely convinced."
