

SUNDAY SPORT

10 JULY 88

Aliens washout

RAIN stopped play for a spaceship-load of aliens who planned a spectacular touchdown on the centre court of Wimbledon last weekend.

Lousy weather forced the evil ETs to abort their plans to make a flying saucer landing on the famous lawns, says top UFO watcher Bill Wilkinson.

"Extraterrestrials hate moisture and the heavy rains at Wimbledon must have forced them to blaze a hasty trail for home," said 55-year-old Bill.

"The aliens could have proven they actually exist.

"But there was no way they would risk destruction in the rain."