

Living with the little green men

It seemed like just another night in Baxenden... the traffic lights were changing, queues were forming at the local chip shop and "Coronation Street" was on the TV.

But then mysterious lights were suddenly visible over the golf course.

Unbeknown to the hundreds of happy families on the Southwood Drive estate, aliens were about to land in Hyndburn.

The spaceship landed on the third fairway and out got a little green man.

He approached the nearest house and rang the bell.

"Hello, I'm sorry to bother you," said the alien, "but could I borrow your phone? I've an important call to make."

Yes, we've had the first UFO sighting of the summer. Who knows how many more there will be once the Government relaxes the licensing laws?
