And if you ^{could - 1} believe all that . . .

She recently filed for divorce from her husband of seven years, so you can understand why actress KIM BASINGER is leery about marriage. "I don't think anybody should get married before they're 30," Basinger told Us magazine. "And even then, I'd think twice about it. . . . I love the institution of marriage, and I will always believe in it. I just don't know what it is," said the star of "My Stepmother Is an Alien." "I love love, and I love to give love, and I'm for honesty and truth and trust. But God, I just don't know what more to say about marriage. It's a strange institution." If you can follow all that, consider that she "very strongly" believes in (UFOs. "I'm waiting for people to land in my yard. I feel like Richard Dreyfuss in 'Close Encounters.'")
