

terrace when she was a teen-ager, said roller-skating has always to police the next day missing cash.

Globe + Mail 21 AUG. 89

FOR THE RECORD

Ottawa fair closes UFO booth

Central Canada Exhibition officials have closed a UFO cult's booth in Ottawa after complaints that it was handing out anti-Semitic material. The action came one day after a member of the cult was sentenced in Hull, Que., to 6½ years in prison for killing another member, whom he believed to be Satan incarnate. The Ottawa chapter of the Canadian Raelian Movement, which believes extra-terrestrials are on their way in UFOs to rescue Earth, was told to pack up books and pamphlets showing a Star of David entwined with a swastika. "We've been greatly misunderstood," said William Apostol of the Ottawa Raelian chapter. "They refuse to understand that the two are historically connected."

SWIMS LAKE ONTARIO
A 31-year-old Toronto man was exvisor Des O'Neill was said Michael Blair, employee, was involved

FALLS UNDER CAR

Metro police said he be laid following Thursday of John Darcy Street. Mr. standing on Dun east of Spadina fell backwards, falling under its died later at Tor pital.

STABBED TO DEATH

A 28-year-old man was found stabbed at her home Friday. called police for former boy arrested, a special Police Officer Anne Seal told about 8:30 p.m. said. When officers found stab wounds dead after treatment. A 28-year-old charged with murder.

Mystery burn spot has Moscow abuzz over 'our UFO brothers'

MOSCOW (CP) — Rumors are flying in Moscow that a UFO landed a few days ago, leaving a large burned spot eight metres (26 feet) in diameter in the southwestern sector of the city.

But some people suggested it might have been caused by lightning, or even a burning hay stack.

The incident was reported yesterday by the official news agency Tass, quoting the trade union newspaper Trud.

Trud brought in Alexander Kuzovkin, who specializes in paranormal phenomena and is associated with the popular geographic magazine Around the World.

Kuzovkin told Trud: "A man, who took samples of the soil, soon felt burning in his fingertips, which turned red.

"The unpleasant feeling lasted for several hours."

"Another man suddenly fell ill on returning home and his temperature rose to 38 degrees (100 Fahrenheit)."

Trud reported that "run-down batteries from a dictating machine, left in the burnt area, mysteriously recharged and the machine began to work again."

But Igor Tsaryob, the Trud reporter who first broke the story, said records of the fire department show that at about the time people in the neighborhood reported seeing something bright and round flying overhead, the fire brigade put out a blaze at a haystack.

"We would like to believe that our brothers visit us sometimes, but now the general opinion is that it was a hay stack," said Tsaryob, speaking through an translator.

3 AUG. 89 Toronto Star