RUSSIA has been invaded by aliens from outer space... but they aren't such Little Green Men anymore.

They have now grown into 12ft giants, according to terrified witnesses who said they saw them land in a city park.

Warning

They said the weird space travellers, who had tiny heads, went for a stroll in the park before disappearing inside their spacecraft again.

And after flying off, they left behind rocks of a substance not found on Earth.

The news agency Tass, which speaks for the Soviet government, said yesterday that the landing had been CONFIRMED by Russian scientists.

Tass said a large shining ball or disc was seen hovering over the park at Voronezh, 300 miles south east of Moscow.

The news agency, which did not give the date of the landing, said onlookers were "overwhelmed with a fear that lasted for several days."

Genrikh Silanov, head of the Voronezh Geophysical Laboratory, said scientists found a 60ft wide depression with four deep dents as well as two unidentified rocks.

Silanov said: "At first glance, they looked like sandstone of a deep-red colour. But tests have shown that the substance cannot be found on Earth."

Last summer a Soviet newspaper reported a close encounter between a milkmaid and an alien in Central Russia's Perm region.

She described him as "taller than average with short legs and only a small knob instead of a head."

FINNY BUSINESS

Angler Tony Bouchier hooked a 15lb trout - stuffed and mounted on a plaque. Burglars had dumped it in New Zealand's Tongariro River.
