

How do you recognise an alien? Twelve feet but only one tiny head

by DAVID LAWSON

THE aliens have landed. And when they stepped out of their spaceship they went for a walk in the park.

Three giant creatures 12 feet tall with tiny heads chose Russia for a very close encounter with the human race.

Their arrival was heralded by a shining ball seen hovering over the local park by residents of Voronezh, 300 miles south east of Moscow.

The UFO landed and out came the giants, similar to humans and accompanied by a small robot.

"They went for a promenade near their spaceship," said official news agency Tass. "Then they disappeared back inside.

"Onlookers were overwhelmed with a fear that lasted several days."

Respected

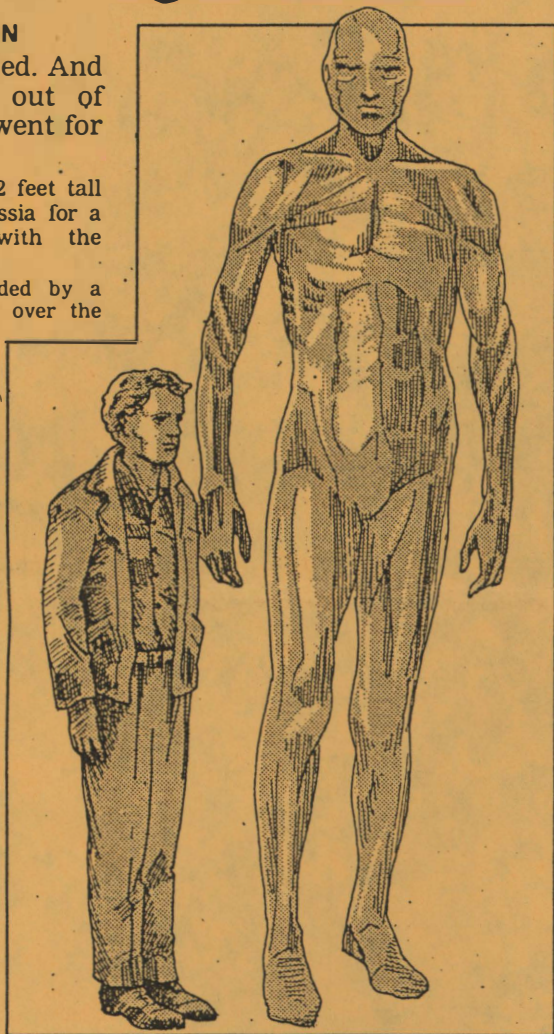

The landing was authenticated by staff from the Voronezh Geophysical Laboratory, whose head, Genrikh Silanov, is a respected scientist.

Tass said: "Scientists confirmed that an UFO landed in the park. They also identified the landing site and found traces of aliens."

Silanov's men discovered a 20-yard depression in the park with four deep dents, and two pieces of rock.

"They looked like deep red sandstone. But analysis showed that the substance cannot be found on Earth," said Silanov.

Tass did not say when the landing was, but its acceptance that the visit from outer space was gen-

This poured scorn on a report in Socialist Industry quoting a UFO specialist who said that a 26-foot wide patch of burned ground near southern Moscow was probably caused by a UFO landing.

Not so, said Tass. Firemen claimed a haystack caught fire and scorched the ground.
