Two of the MediaGuardian.co.uk team's favourite TV shows team up for this week's Viral Video Chart: Mad Men and Sesame Street. This episode of the kids' show – part of the 40th anniversary season of Sesame Street – aims to teach children to understand feelings. They can learn the differences between a mad man, a sad man and a happy man – and what honey has to do with it.

Don Draper's part is performed by the legendary Frank Oz, who is back as a Sesame Street puppeteer for the first time in 15 years. Most of us know him because he played Miss Piggy or Fozzie Bear in The Muppets and Cookie Monster, Grover and Bert in Sesame Street. The clip is gaining online momentum after featuring on the New York Times and Huffington Post sites in the last few days.

We also have something for fans of conspiracy theories this week: a UFO video from Spain filmed in Blair Witch style. You see fighter planes, something that looks like an UFO that splashes in the water and then a helicopter tells the Spanish fishermen to leave the area. Fake or real? Judge for yourself.

Source: Unruly Media. Compiled from data gathered at 17:00 on 1 October 2009. The Viral Video Chart measures the viral dissemination of both brand-driven and user-uploaded videos across social media environments. Videos are ranked by the velocity of citations, based on a real-time analysis of over 50 million blogs and microblogging profiles. View and comment counts are cumulative and are aggregated across all known instances of the video. For more detailed metrics contact Unruly Media.

Note to users: Last week we changed the Viral Video Chart to focus more on new clips. Most of you liked it – what is your opinion? Please tell us, either way.
