

POWER FLASH

PEOPLE in London worried about "strange, bright objects" in the sky last night. But all they were seeing were stars. A Met Office man said: "Before the power cuts, you could never see stars properly because of all the light in the city."