Series IV: Constituent Service

Scope and Content Note

Senator Goldwater's constituencies were wide ranging and extended far beyond the State of Arizona. Congressional constituents include but are not limited to private citizens, federal and state agencies, counties and municipalities, public, private, non-profit, and political organizations, industries, and various interest groups. This material often provides additional background information and perspective on an issue. The correspondence, often personal in tone, reflects Goldwater's interests and relationships with the military community; aircraft and telecommunication industries; hobbyists and collectors; civic organizations; and political groups. His concerns with labor, communism, defense, and big government in addition to his advocacy for aviation, telecommunications, science, and technology are well documented. His status as an icon is also reflected in significant national and international fan mail. Some correspondence, especially in the 91st Congress, is transitional in nature and can be seen as a continuation of the "personal" correspondence received during his hiatus from public office from 1965 to 1968.

This series is arranged into three sub-series: Projects and Programs, Issue Mail, and General Correspondence. These sub-series are arranged by Congress and alphabetically and chronologically within.

Projects and Programs generally capture local and regional grants, awards, proposals; technical and annual reports, court claims and legal briefs; federal, state, county, and city staff and agency initiatives; staff special projects; and programs of special interest to Senator Goldwater. This section is also a rich source of local history. Note that a number of institutions, agencies, and organizations listed here also appear in Series I: Personal - Boards and Memberships.

This sub-series is a rich source of gray literature – unpublished, difficult to locate materials like technical reports, pre-prints, fact sheets, patents, working papers, meeting minutes, business documents, newsletters, bulletins, symposia, standards, white papers, proceedings, and unpublished works. As such, it has high research value. More information is available at http://www.csulb.edu/library/subj/gray\_literature. Projects and programs can become controversial and generate Issue Mail. Some go on to inspire legislative action. Related material may be found in several series.

Issue Mail is organized by topic and can be considered "current events and issues at a glance," i.e., Watergate, Panama Canal, or Taiwan Treaty. This sub-series is organized by topics primarily established by Goldwater's office staff and often noted in the upper right hand corner of Goldwater's response letter. These terms were incorporated in folder titles wherever possible. Like-topics were combined within congressional sessions when feasible. Bulk determined what could be consolidated and what could stand alone. Large runs of correspondence were left under their original designations. Note that these descriptive titles shifted over time and are not uniform, i.e. Immigration, Border Patrol, Illegal Aliens, Farm Labor, Mexican Nationals.

Unless noted, all issue mail has been retained. Where possible all enclosures have been retained. If a form letter was attached to orphaned documents, it was considered Issue Mail. Note that form letters have been aggregated within Series V: Administrative. Although Goldwater's positions are represented in form letters, many of the responses found here deviate from a set script and often reflect a personal quality.

General Correspondence is arranged alphabetically by sender or addressee last names when known. This includes but is not limited to requests for assistance, offers of viewpoints and advice, support or opposition to issues or legislative matters of the day. It covers a wide range of topics, often with personal responses from Senator Goldwater. It also represents many orphan documents. The majority of this material was found in large runs labeled "miscellaneous" that were inconsistently filed throughout the collection.

The majority of VIP and colleague correspondence, as well as some Alpha Files, were also discovered in this mix. As was feasible, these documents were removed, reunited with like-material and placed in other series. The bulk of this correspondence can be found within Series III: Legislative - Colleague Correspondence and Committees or Series I: Personal - Alpha Files. Note that it was not possible to capture all significant correspondence within these categories. Scattered colleague, VIP, and Alpha File correspondence may appear elsewhere such as Series V: Administrative.

Processing Note

Nothing in this series reflects original order. The material had been shifted, re-boxed, and often re-labeled multiple times after it was deposited, making reconstruction of original order impossible. This was an opportunity to create flexible headings commensurate with current descriptions of Constituent Service as well as to consolidate topics, folders, and date ranges. During the microfilming process much of this correspondence was severely cropped and separated from the Senator's responses. Therefore, attachments and other information may be missing. Where possible, these documents have been reunited. Approximately 15% of this material was found loose or in unlabeled folders. Correspondence within folders is arranged chronologically. Documents with no dates appear at the end of the run. Note that VIP and colleague correspondence was found throughout constituent correspondence and labeled as miscellaneous. The bulk of this material is now found in Series II: Legislative - Colleague Correspondence and Committees or Series I: Personal - Alpha Files.

Separated Materials

Numerous case files (60 linear feet) from the 91st-99th Congress were discovered among this material. Individual case files have been retained for research and are listed at the end of this container list. They are organized according to the federal agency or department to which the cases were referred. These files are considered sensitive. Please contact the archivist for permissions and access.

Series V: Administrative

Scope and Content Note

This series documents the office work of Senator Goldwater's staff, including daily office operations and procedures. Much of this series reflects the Senator's interest in the personal and social aspects of his constituents.

This series is arranged in nine sub-series and alphabetically and chronologically within: Appointment Books; Congressional Research Service; Correspondence; Invitations Accepted; Manuals; Nominations and Recommendations; Other, Schedules, and Travel.

Correspondence files contain sent as well as received letters for birthdays and anniversaries, congratulatory, condolence and thank you letters. Goldwater's personal relationships with various White House staff members are evident here. Most notable are the numerous requests to write articles and books; national and international requests to see the Senator; and correspondence related to the press and publicity. For political party correspondence, see Series I: Personal-Politics. Note: Although some personal and social correspondence can be found in this series, the vast majority is located within Series I: Personal.

The Goldwater staff made extensive use of Congressional Research Service materials on a wide variety of topics ranging from abortion to tax reform. These compilations and analyses are exceptionally rich and represent the foundations of much public policy. Most were found as loose material or in unidentified folders.

Documentation of Goldwater's speaking and non-speaking engagements can be found under Invitations Accepted. These files also include brochures, pamphlets, photos and other background materials regarding events he attended that reflect the social, philanthropic and business obligations he had in his personal and political life. Goldwater's schedules document various commitments to family, friends, committee assignments, military duties, and the Republican Party.

Senator Goldwater actively and successfully supported nominees for numerous federal positions. Many Arizonans rose to prominence because of his advocacy. Nominations and Recommendations includes files for Sandra Day O'Connor and William H. Rehnquist to the United States Supreme Court; Dean Burch as Chair of the National Republican Party and Chairman of the Federal Communications Commission; Dr. Lewis Tambs as Ambassador to Columbia and Costa Rica; and Isabel Burgess to the National Transportation Safety Board.

Travel files chronicle domestic and international trips. Senator Goldwater was officially appointed by the President to be the U.S. Representative at the Paris Air Show and other aviation events. Additionally, he traveled to Taiwan, Vietnam, South Africa, and Antarctica for both personal and political reasons. Senator Goldwater traveled frequently to fulfill his role on the Republican Senate Campaign Committee, the Air Force Board of Visitors, and the Armed Services Committee. He was in great demand as a speaker and fundraiser for organizations ranging from the Republican Party and the National Asthma Foundation to Masonic Lodges and the Smithsonian Institute.

Processing Note

Records have been weeded of duplicates, routine applications and requests for employment, routine requests for government publications, autographs, and flag information.

Series VI: Media

Scope and Content Note

This series is exceptionally dense, potentially rich, and represents approximately one third of the entire collection based on total box number. It is arranged in ten sub-series: Speeches, Statements, Remarks; Newsclippings; Publications; Scrapbooks; Political Cartoons; Photographs; Film; Video; Audio; and Microfilm. Some items are housed in map and media drawers rather than in boxes.

Speeches, Statements, Remarks: Arranged by congressional session and chronologically within. Speeches have been aggregated from legislative and staff files, personal materials, press releases, publications, brochures, and other sources. Note that the print version of speeches, statements, remarks contains many gaps. Speech writers represented here include but are not limited to Karl Hess, Tony Smith, Earl Eisenhower, Lee Edwards, and Terry Emerson. Campaign speeches may also be found in Senate Campaigns and the 1964 Presidential Campaign. Where the speech titles are known, they appear in quotes. See also Congressional Record Excerpts. More speeches are captured in 700+ audio reels and cassettes. In May, 2011, forty additional new speeches and press releases (1969-1972) were discovered. These were added to the end of the Speeches subseries, Box 570, folders 45-85.

News Clippings: Many from a professional news clipping service; some donated by family and friends. See also Scrapbooks.

Publications: Articles from magazines, journals, and special editions related to Goldwater or topics that reflect his interests.

Processing Note

Funding from the Arizona State Legislature allowed for selective digitization of certain audio-visual material, fragile news clipping scrapbooks, political cartoons, and microfilm. It has been weeded of duplicates, deteriorating loose clippings, blank and non-functioning tapes, and material unrelated to Senator Goldwater's public service and personal life.

Sub-Series E: Political Cartoons

Scope and Content Note

Original artwork from well known political cartoonists. Goldwater was an avid cartoon collector and often solicited these drawings for their cleverness regardless of how he was depicted. See also Series I. Personal-Cartoons for correspondence with various cartoonists. Note that ASC does not own the copyright to these cartoons.

Sub-Series F: Photographs

Scope and Content Note

Document not only Goldwater's political career but also his personal life, friends and family. Includes photographs taken by Goldwater, by professional photographers, and those photographs gifted to him. The images here include historic photographs, original photographs, and reproductions ranging in size from 2 x 3 inches to 16 x 20 inches, both color and black and white.

The photographs include 8,000 un-mounted images, 150+ oversized images, 110+ albums, 5,000 slides, 1,500 negatives, and contact sheets from the 1964 campaign trail. These materials cover a span of over 100 years. Not typical of congressional collections, especially those documenting family history, the sheer volume and diversity of subjects can be attributed to Goldwater's eclectic interests, expertise in photography and high profile political leadership. Goldwater himself was highly photogenic and the object of much media coverage. He also received many photos as gifts.

Photographs have been arranged using the following categories: Awards and Certificates, Boards and Memberships, Committees, Family, Goldwater Stores, Military, Office and Visitors, Personal, Personal Portraits, Political, Public Appearances, Social Functions, Staff and Friends, Travel, and VIPs. Folders then appear alphabetically and chronologically within. Information such as location, date, event, and individuals, when known, is noted. Many prints, however, remain unidentified. Highlights of the collection include an array of military aircraft and bases; Hollywood celebrities; formal and informal portraits of Goldwater and family at work, rest and play; national and international political leaders; early family and childhood photos; Goldwater's pre-political and social life; and travel. Due to the depth and complexity of this sub-series, slides, contact sheets, negatives and albums are listed separately.

Processing Note

All photographs are encapsulated in Mylar sleeves, arranged in acid-free folders and placed in archival boxes. Duplicates were weeded throughout. Images range from fair to excellent condition. A number of photos show damage due to handling and previous poor storage. As expected, certain color photographs are fading. Some of the historic prints are also faded, bent or torn. Where possible, acid-free linen tape was applied to the backs of the more fragile prints to improve their stability. Embedded within the collection were approximately 800 negatives with no prints. These items were scanned, prints made and added to the collection. While these images now exist in print form, the original negatives and digital files have been preserved.

Separated Materials

Goldwater's fine arts photographs (FP-FPC 2) and his collection of Old West photographs (FP-FPC1) are processed as separate collections.

Sub-Series K: Microfilm (Includes CDs)

Scope and Content Note

Overall, the quantity and quality of records differ significantly from Goldwater's first two terms (1953-1964) and his last three terms (1969-1986). Content largely reflects constituent correspondence. Committee work appears limited as is colleague and VIP correspondence. Organized alphabetically by sender and by topic.

Processing Note

Many microfilm reels were in poor condition and required restoration. Original microfilm has been retained. All microfilm has been digitized to searchable compact discs available in the reading room. There is an archival copy and a use copy for each CD number. Microfilming continued until 1983.

Series VII: Artifacts, Memorabilia, and Oversized Material

Scope and Content Note

Senator Goldwater was an ardent collector. He donated his extensive airplane model collection to the Oskosh Air Museum (<http://www.airventuremuseum.org/>) and his famous Kachina collection to the Heard Museum (<http://www.heard.org/>). He also collected western art, was an automobile enthusiast and a gun collector - all of which are reflected in his personal correspondence as well as photographs. He was the recipient of many awards representing the breadth and depth of his political, military, and personal achievements including the Thayer Award, the National Aviation Hall of Fame (<http://www.nationalaviation.org/>), the International Swimming Hall of Fame (<http://www.ishof.org/>), and the National Congress of American Indians Congressional Award (<http://www.ncai.org/>).

This series is arranged by format into six sub-series: Awards and Certificates; Plaques; Small Awards, Medals, Medallions; Campaign Memorabilia; General; Artwork; and Additions. Chronologically within except as noted.

Processing Note

Originally this material represented nearly 400 linear feet. Many of these items have been de-accessioned. Best practices for artifact retention and AHF policies for de-accession were observed. Those items that met one or more of the following criteria were retained:

- Storage space required was sustainable
- Material could be displayed in context
- Intrinsic value (material, aesthetics, uniqueness, representational value)
- Good physical condition
- Did not require additional long term preservation or restoration

Separated Materials

Many large military artifacts (approximately 100 linear feet) were de-accessioned to the Commemorative Air Force Museum at Falcon Field (<http://www.azcaf.org/>) where there was a Goldwater military exhibit already in place. In January 2006, Senator Goldwater's children were invited to select from those artifacts that did not meet retention criteria. Approximately 250 linear feet were de-accessioned at that time. Successful efforts were made to re-claim artifacts on temporary exhibit at various locations in the Phoenix area.

Accruals

Two boxes (981, 982) of newly discovered publications by Goldwater (1940-1978) were added at the end of the collection, October, 2011.

Two boxes (984-985) of newly discovered Channel 10 reel-to-reel films and VHS cassettes were added at the end of the collection, May, 2012.

Constituent Case Files

Scope and Content Note

Congressional office staff largely determine the status of "case" files versus "issue" files. Case files are distinguished from other Constituent Service correspondence by their appeals for intervention with specific federal agencies or programs. They often include detailed medical, social, or legal background material.

As a national political figure, Goldwater attracted requests for assistance outside of Arizona. Hence, these case files often reflect a national constituency, especially for military issues. These cases document "on the ground" examples of an individual's frequently troubled relationship with society and government at all levels. As of this date, these records may be the only congressional case files available in the State of Arizona.

The files generally reflect the order and original folders in which they were found. They are organized roughly by federal department or agency and by Congress. Some files are more of an informational nature and resemble files in the Projects and Programs and Constituent Issue Mail series. Note that the date on the folder may reflect when the case was begun but was later filed in the Congress when the case was closed. Thus, folder dates may span several congressional sessions. In the 91st and 92nd Congresses there is evidence of three unique filing systems used at various times and also evidence of missing folders. There are no files for the 98th Congress, 1983-1984.

Access Restrictions

Though these files are considered sensitive, they offer significant possibilities for statistical, sociological, political, and historical analyses. In keeping with long established access criteria to records for medical research, researchers may be granted access to these case files with special permission depending on the nature of the research project. Contact Archives and Special Collections for more information.

Biographical / Historical Note

M.M.C., the initials for the Marietta Manufacturing Company, also stood for its slogan, "Made Mechanically Correct". This slogan resounded for generations, particularly with those associated with trade on the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers. Marietta began in 1852 as a partnership known as W.F. Robertson & Sons Company in Beverly, Ohio. Robertson & Sons built stoves, capstans, boiler feed pumps and other steamboat equipment.

Following a devastating fire in the 1870s, Robertson & Sons moved to Marietta, Ohio in 1881, and resumed their business. In 1892, the Robertson family sold their interest in the company. That same year the Marietta Manufacturing Company was officially formed with an Ohio charter by Alla Windsor, J.D. Lashley and James H. McConnell as organizers and stockholders. Windsor would be the first of three generations of his namesake that would serve as president of Marietta and influence the history of the company greatly.

Alla Windsor served as president of the company until his death in 1911, after which his son, Walter A. Windsor, would take over his position at the tender age of twenty-seven. In future years, Marietta would become one of the major inland shipyards in the country. Much of the rapid growth and expansion of the company during the early twentieth century can be attributed to a combination of increasing demand for all types of watercraft and the company's willingness to cater to this demand. Walter A. Windsor is credited for much of the leadership, experience and foresight that would make this possible.

Marietta continued its production of steamboat equipment until 1913, when its facilities were virtually wiped out by a major flood of the Ohio River. Soon after, the citizens of Point Pleasant, West Virginia (also devastated by the flood) set out to attract new industry to the area. Lured by a location situated on higher ground and near the junction of the Ohio and Kanawha rivers (excellent for serving river transportation), as well as incentives by city officials, the company was officially moved to Point Pleasant under a West Virginia charter in 1915. At this time, Marietta's main concern of operation was related to steam engines, much of which consisted of work done for the U.S. government during World War I.

Following the war, demand for river boats began to increase significantly. Marietta's first contract for the complete construction of a towboat came in 1918. The many types of river and ocean-going vessels and equipment produced by Marietta for both U.S. and foreign markets included crane barges, packet boats, towboats, barges, dry docks (used for boat repair), pontoons, wharf boats, ferry flats, derrick boats (used for digging sand and gravel and placing pilings), dredge boats (used to make river channels wider and deeper for improved navigation and flood control), tug boats and survey ships. Military vessels included landing craft utilities, landing tugs, mine planters, net tenders, and patrol boats. The company also produced steering and capstan engines and offered a wide variety of work and repair on watercraft.

Among Marietta's major customers were Imperial Oil Company of Colombia, South America, American Barge Lines, Ashland Oil Refining Company, Vesta Coal Company, Island Creek Coal Company, Union Barge Line Corporation, the U.S. government's Federal Barge Line, Esso Standard Oil Co. (Standard Oil), Iron City Sand and Gravel Company and Marquette Cement Manufacturing Company.

Marietta was not only involved in the construction of watercraft and equipment; they also produced carbon black plants (the first prefabricated commercial plants for the Channelype method of producing carbon black, and the first carbon black equipment sent to Russia), natural gasoline plants and coal mining machines.

Walter A. Windsor died in 1929 at the age of forty-one. Windsor's widow, Mrs. Ann Park Windsor, was soon elected as Vice-President. She would become quite involved in the upcoming conversion of the shipyard for war-time production. The position of president was filled by Charles O. Weissenburger. After Weissenburger's death in 1944, Windsor's brother, Dewey A. Windsor, became president of Marietta.

During World War II, Marietta employed up to 2500 workers at its peak period. The company constructed four net tenders and sixteen mine planters for the U.S. Navy, fifty-three steam tugs for the U.S. Army and two towboats for the Defense Plant Corporation. The U.S. Army ended up buying only forty-seven of the ordered steam tugs and the remaining six were sold by Marietta to Russia. In addition, the U.S. Navy originally ordered forty tank landing craft from Marietta, only to cancel the contract later. These forty cancelled tank landing craft were only part of a total of one-hundred originally to be constructed by Marietta and six other shipbuilders. Of the seven, Marietta was the only company to have the complete order cancelled.

Regardless of these few problems, Marietta had an overall great working relationship with the U.S. government. In 1944, the company received the Army-Navy "E" award for exceptional service in war-time production. Other vessels built for the U.S. Government by Marietta included six dredges for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers between 1932 and 1934, three patrol boats for the U.S. Coast Guard in 1934, ten landing craft utility for the U.S. Government between 1953 and 1954, two berthing and messing craft for the U.S. Navy in 1956, two survey ships for the U.S. Department of Commerce in 1963 and three survey ships for the U.S. Navy between 1964 and 1965.

One tragic event that stands out in Marietta's history occurred on the morning of December 22, 1953. On this day an empty gasoline barge exploded at the company's boat dock. This accident claimed the lives of six workers who were cleaning the barge at the time it exploded. The workers were Raymond Beller, Chester Elliot, Sherman Randolph, John Wheeler, William Fletcher and Harry "Tad" Bonecutter.

Dewey A. Windsor served as president of Marietta until 1953, when the position was taken over by H.R. Cole. Cole served until Elmer W. Easter took his place in 1957. Easter served as president for only one year. In 1958 the position of president at Marietta was filled by Walter M. Windsor (Walter A. Windsor's other son), the youngest president of a major shipbuilding firm in the world at that time. In 1960, the company opened a second shipyard in Mound City, Illinois.

Due to economic conditions, Marietta formally ceased operation in February 1970. In the years leading up to its closure, the company primarily served as a vessel repair facility. Later that year, the plant was purchased at auction from Travelers Indemnity Company by Amherst Industries, Inc., a subsidiary of the Amherst Coal Company of Charleston, WV.

In 1972, the company became active once again under Amherst Industries, Inc. as Point Pleasant Marine Company. The company continued to offer repair services and, within a few years, began building vessels again. However, this was not to last. In 1984, after labor trouble and a strike by employees, the company closed its doors for good.

The following list represents the known vessels that Marietta built or had contracted out to be built during its production history.

Description

The records of the Marietta Manufacturing Company document the organization through correspondence, reports, production files, personnel files, legal documents, financial records, engineering drawings and photographic images. Much of the records include documentation of everyday operation on an administrative and productive level. While not all periods are covered equally for each subject and type of material, a good overall portion of the company's long history is reflected in the records. The records are separated into the following fourteen series: Personnel Department, Photographic Materials, Windsor Family, Legal Documents, Central Files, Financial Records, Production Department, Sales Department, Printed Materials, Product Working Files, Oversized Items (Boxes), Oversized Items (Folders), and Additional Accession.

(Note: At present drawings within the Marietta records are on a limited access status, and only a relatively small portion of the drawings have been identified. Additionally, current drawing location resources we possess are internal and not available online, so please consult with staff regarding any drawing searches. For further details, see the Engineering Department series description)

Series 1: The Personnel Department series contains detailed individual employee records. These records span from the 1930s to the late 1960s. Due to the presence of sensitive information, the bulk of these files are closed until 2046. Among the open records are joint committee minutes which document union negotiations of pay, vacation and insurance. Also included are employee manuals, correspondence, timesheet reports and employee directories. Though covering only the 1940s through 1960s, these materials offer a good look into the existing work atmosphere and culture of that period. (Note: For general office communications related to personnel matters see also Central Files. For other personnel records specific to product built see the Product Working Files series)

Series 2: Photographic Materials is a large collection of images in both print and negative format, and covers an extended time period of the company. Some of the negatives are accompanied by prints for viewing, while others are not. Most all types of products produced by Marietta can be found in these materials. The majority of these are ships, but other Marietta-built products such as carbon black plants and coal mining machines are also documented. These images are arranged further into sub series by product type and subject. Also included are images of the factory, employees and local areas of interest, though many of these do not have specific identification. A small portion of this series includes glass negatives, most of which have limited access due to damage and fragility. While the inventory offers an adequate overall description of what exists in this series, in some cases researchers will still need to rely on internal departmental resources. For more information please contact staff.

Series 3: Windsor Family offers a personal look at the family that played such a major role in the long history of Marietta. The bulk of these materials concern Walter M. Windsor and are represented by correspondence and financial records. A small portion of these are restricted until 2046 due to their recent activity and sensitive nature. Also included are materials documenting the life of Walter M. Windsor's father, Walter A. Windsor. Among these are several graduate diplomas and a scrapbook. The scrapbook is of particular interest as it contains clippings highlighting Windsor's life and career as well as many sympathy letters and cards from friends and acquaintances sent to his widow following his death in 1929. Also included are clippings documenting local news and events. Among these is the opening of the Silver Bridge in 1928. This 2,235 foot bridge connected Point Pleasant, West Virginia and Kanauga, Ohio and was both the first aluminum painted bridge and the first eye-bar suspension bridge of its type in the country. Tragically, in 1967 the bridge collapsed. Forty-six people were killed in this accident. (Note: For general office communications related to the Windsor Family see also Central Files.)

Series 4: Legal Documents consists of contracts, by-laws and financial records. Many of these materials, particularly the contracts, represent some of the earliest documentation of the company. Some of the earliest materials document specifics of Marietta's move from its original location in Ohio to West Virginia following a devastating flood. The contracts deal with a variety of business deals including those related to land, materials and other similar matters. (Note: For general office communications related to legal matters see also Central Files. For other legal records specific to product built see the Product Working Files series)

Series 5: Central Files contains the everyday working correspondence of the company at a departmental level. Though the bulk of the time period covered is the 1950s through 1960s, this series does offer an excellent look at the company's business style and procedural operation of the period. These materials also offers insight into the types of customers the company was serving, as well as an inside look at operations on the departmental level. These materials were filed in the current manner by the company and this filing system was retained. In most cases these files consist of general office communication that was filtered to the central office. For this reason one may find related and sometimes duplicated materials in other series. There is a very small amount of legal materials that have been restricted until 2046 due to their recent activity and sensitive nature. (Note: For other records specific to company department or product built see appropriate series)

Series 6: Financial Records include a broad range of reports documenting the finances of the company over a long period. These reports are of a general nature and mostly reflect the company's finances on a large scale. Stockholder Reports and tax returns offer a look into Marietta's from its early years in West Virginia into the 1960s. (Note: For general office communications related to legal business see also Central Files. For other financial records specific to product built see the Product Working Files series)

Series 7: Production Department contains a broad range of reports documenting the productive activity of the company over a long period. In addition to production, these records also refer to equipment repair and renovation, an activity Marietta was also heavily involved in. Early production invoices are arranged alphabetically by customer name. Also included are labor distribution reports and inventories of equipment, as well as reports for the Mound City, Illinois shipyard. (Note: For general office communications related to production see also Central Files. For other production records specific to product built see the Product Working Files series)

Series 8: Sales Department contains materials related to sales activity of a general nature at the company. The sales manual includes lists of customers as well as national maps depicting regions to target, however it appears this publication was never officially put into use. Other material consists of sales reports. (Note: For general office communications related to sales see also Central Files. For other sales records specific to product built see the Product Working Files series)

Series 9: Printed Materials consists mostly of publications from the 1950s and 1960s related to the shipping industry, along with a few business and financial publications of a more general nature. Included are several issues of the American Waterways Operators Inc. newsletter. Among the industry publications are several issues of Waterways Journal, a weekly shipping industry publication in which several large page advertisements of Marietta can be found. Unfortunately, within the industry publications there are only a few issues of Marietta Log, a small newsletter of company news published by Marietta. Of particular interest are several printing plates that were apparently used in past company advertising.

Series 10: Engineering Department contains materials related to engineering activity at the company. Several engineering manuals are included, most of which appear to have been assembled by individual engineers throughout the years and passed down for future reference. Correspondence generally concerns specific projects and references to the related drawings. (Note: For general office communications related to engineering activities see also Central Files. For other engineering records specific to product built see the Product Working Files series)

The collection includes an estimated 35,000 drawings dating as early as 1918, when the company started building ships. Blueprints consist of all phases of construction including components, engines, mechanical and electrical schematics, and capstans. Drawings for carbon plants, buildings, and the company grounds are included. The drawings are stored in 67 drawers and 196 boxes.

Also included are many drawing indexes in both ledger and card form. The drawings listed do not necessarily reflect drawings that are in the collection. Also present are a few boxes of small drawings arranged numerically. At present all drawings are on a limited access status. This is due in part to the large number of drawings, limited space for housing and limited staff to process and identify. 2049 are identified in a spreadsheet found at this link:

Marietta Blueprint Drawing Inventory (MS Excel file).

The drawings are organized by sequential drawing number. The information on each document was not always consistent. Therefore, if listed the information includes the date created, ship size, title, the type of vessel, name of vessel, hull number, the purchaser(s), the Marietta list number, the Marietta order number, the company that created the drawing, and any additional notes. The paper stock used was the cyanotype process on paper, linen, and thin tracing paper. Note: A small amount of drawings can also be found in Series 12-14.

Other things to consider when requesting drawings is the complicated nature of their creation. Many drawings may have several duplicates made of the same or different paper, such as a "blueprint" copy and a "linen" copy or several of each. Many times these duplicate copies have been marked void or may have inscribed revisions. Of these, they may or may not have alternate numbers attached to the main Marietta number. Furthermore, Marietta also used drawings from other companies. Sometimes the company would produce the drawing but still use a Marietta number, while others have their own company's number. Usually these drawings relate to an accessory of the product that is nonstructural, such as the radio, gyroscopes or heating parts on a ship. There were also many combinations of prefixes used on drawing numbers, some beginning with letters, while others beginning with numbers followed by letters and more numbers.

Drawings that were originally accessioned as groups were identified in past years before the processing of the actual records began. These are the drawings for which we have number identification, and in some cases, further detailed information for. Those drawings encountered while processing the records were retained by product type. This is somewhat of an advantage as you have an idea of what the drawing was used for. However, in most cases there is no number documentation in a comprehensive list form. Much of the relationship of the numbers can be found in the various product-specific reports and correspondence of the Product Working Files series. These numbers normally consist of a hull number, an S.O. (shipping order) number, a P.O. (purchase order) number or a contract number. At present there is no entirely comprehensive listing of drawings held. However, there are a few resources available for some of the drawings. For example, one document entitled Work Launches includes S.O. numbers and hull numbers for many Marietta projects, and can be found in folder 741.127.b. Two other examples can be found in the Product Working Files series in the form of a survey ship manual index in folder 742.199.a and a survey ship drawing index in os box 17. Additionally, in some cases these numbers may be found associated with the actual drawing number on the drawing index cards and ledgers previously mentioned in the Engineering Department series description)

Series 11: Product Working Files document all of the daily records used for the construction and repair of specific products. The bulk of these are ships, but other Marietta-built products such as carbon black plants and coal mining machines are also present. These records are arranged further into sub series by product type. These files also include thorough documentation of the six (out of fifty-three) steam tugs that were cancelled by the U.S. Army after production and later sold to Russia. Complete documentation also exists for the forty tank landing craft ordered by the U.S Navy but later cancelled and never built. During processing some of the files in this series included a mixture of record types that would lose provenance if separated. In these instances the files were simply assigned the term "working files".

Series 12: Oversized Items (Boxes) contains items that were separated during processing due to their large size. These items are referenced within the series in which they were removed to their present location. There is also a complete list of items in oversized boxes included in the inventory.

Series 13: Oversized Items (Folders) contains items that were separated during processing due to their large size. These items are referenced within the series in which they were removed to their present location. There is also a complete list of items in oversized folders included in the inventory.

Series 14: Additional Accession contains mixed materials very much related to other materials in the collection. This material was being conserved at the original time of processing, so for convenience it has been added at the end of the records. Highlights of this material include correspondence, purchase orders, drawings, work orders and weight estimates documenting nearly all ship types represented in the previous series.

Reserve. While at Camp Lejeune in January, 1944, he commented on the techniques of teaching weapons class. In March, 1944, Lt. White was stationed in Hawaii and he described camp life and the Americanization of the islands as a consequence of the war. Other descriptions of camp life on unnamed islands in the Pacific Ocean in later 1944 and early 1945 were included as were discussions of men's opinions of women in the Red Cross, the decay of the men's minds due to lack of use and boredom and what the men did to prevent it, General MacArthur's exaggeration of facts in his communiques, the American public's forgetful attitude toward the fighting men, and the effect of the war on the relationship of armed forces personnel and their wives. Correspondence dated March 7 and 10, 1945, described Lt. White's part in the capture of Suribachi Mountain in the battle on Iwo Jima.

Lieutenant Cliff R. Schrom of the U.S. Army Air Corps was a bombardier stationed in England in 1943 and 1944. His letters give detailed description of the camp facilities and camp life (December, 1943, March, 1944), visits to Red Cross Clubs and extra-legal Bottle Clubs in London, tourist attractions in London, the difference in pay between British and American officers, black market prices, the problem of civilian girls staying overnight at the barracks, and the British infatuation with tradition and ceremony as seen in the induction of the Mayor of London. Also included are newspaper clippings concerning Allied bomber attacks on Germany. Lt. Schrom's letters discuss the number of combat missions required in a tour of duty in the Pacific or in the ETO (European Theater of Operation), the protection given by "buzz boys" to the bombers on their missions, the low opinion held by air crews concerning replacement crews, and Captain Walker Mahurin who was a heroic escort pilot for American bombers in the ETO. Lt. Schrom was listed as missing in action over Germany in April, 1944, and there are included letters written by Mary Bason that were returned. These letters mention the waste of paper by the Army while civilians are warned of a paper shortage and the moral disintegration of soldiers in war time.

Correspondence from Jeremy Blanchet of the U.S. Naval Reserve discussed flying maneuvers in training at Glenville, Illinois; Pensacola, Florida; and Jacksonville, Florida; in 1944 and 1945. He also mentioned certain books that were determined to be political propaganda by the Armed Services censors and that if sent unsolicited to servicemen could cause the senders to be fined or jailed.

Second Lieutenant George Sadler of the U.S. Army Air Corps wrote from Northern Ireland, England, and Germany in 1944. He described camp life in N. Ireland, the censorship problem while stationed in England, the Piccadilly Circus area in London, and the necessity of bombardiers taking navigation courses. In September, 1944, Lt. Sadler was listed as missing in action. Letters from Mary Bason that were returned mention the anger of the American public over news media censorship of battlefield information, Liberator losses in September, 1944, and Governor Dewey's campaign tactics against President F. D. Roosevelt in the presidential campaign. From October thru December, 1944, Mary Bason received three cards from Lt. Sadler from a prison camp in Germany which indicated that he received food from the Red Cross and that he spent a lot of time reading. By June of 1945 Lt. Sadler had been liberated and while visiting Paris, France, he wrote to Mary Bason mentioning the French women's attitude towards the ex-POW's and the effect of the war on Paris.

The remaining correspondence is from several men who wrote a few letters each. Marne Snyder of South Orange, New Jersey, wrote of trouble he had getting deferred for educational reasons in 1941. Frank L. Turner discussed moves made in 1941 by the U.S. government to make U.S. short-wave radio broadcasts competitive with German broadcasts. Correspondence from Lt. David Early on the USS READY and the USS MONROVIA in 1942 revealed problems with the crew because so few days were spent in port, and discussed his job as communication officer and "N" Division officer. Lt. Robert A. Day of the U.S. Army wrote letters from Akureyri in N. Iceland where he was stationed in 1943 and 1944. He described the people and the countryside of Iceland, the Icelandic-American relationship, the ban on soldiers and Icelandic girls marrying, the subsequent lifting of the ban and its consequences, the celebration of Iceland's independence from Denmark, restrictions on enlisted men, soldiers' opinions of the American public's labor-management grievances, and the method for soldiers to vote.

Bill Aycock wrote in September, 1945, the loss in business beginning to be suffered by companies such as Allison Company in Indianapolis, Indiana, that made engines for U.S. Army aircraft and the possibility of making engines for commercial aircraft. Lt. Winston Broadfoot described Colon, Panama, in 1945. Lt. William A. Bason in 1945 wrote about the Red Cross Club in London and the U.S. Army Air Force putting navigators and bombardiers "on ice" pending developments in the Pacific Ocean. Captain Steve V. Morris of the U.S. Army Air Force stationed in Colorado Springs, Colorado, wrote in March, 1945 concerning the setting up of the Headquarters of the Continental Air Forces in Washington, DC, at Bolling Air Force field.

Also revealed in the correspondence were the books and entertainment available to soldiers in World War II.

Miscellaneous items included are newspaper articles, an article from The Yank, and articles from The Stars and Stripes about American air assaults on German airfields and about Captain Walker M. Mahurin in 1944. Also included are a 1944 issue of Wingspread put out by Peterson Field in Colorado Springs, Colorado; postcards of Reykjavik, Iceland; and pictures of Lt. Cliff R. Schrom and his bomber crew.

American Philosophical Society

36.0 Linear feet

An electrical engineer and senior editor for Aviation Week and Space Technology, Philip Klass began investigating UFOs in 1966 after participating in a panel discussion on the subject for the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers (IEEE). From that time forward Klass has investigated UFO sightings in an effort to find a credible prosaic explanation, and became one of the most widely recognized UFO

"debunkers." A founding member of the Committee for the Scientific Investigation of Claims of the Paranormal (CSICOP), serving on the Executive Council and the UFO subcommittee, Klass has authored seven books and numerous articles on UFOs, including the Skeptics UFO Newsletter in 1989. In the early 1970s, he became interested in space based weapons, and began collecting material related to the Strategic Defense Initiative (SDI) for a possible book. The Klass Collection relate to his forty-plus years of investigating UFO sightings, and includes correspondence with many of the ... Read More

OCLC ONLINE COMPUTER LIBRARY CENTER, INC. PRIVACY POLICY

About OCLC

OCLC Online Computer Library Center, Inc. ("OCLC") is a nonprofit, membership, computer library service and research organization dedicated to the public purposes of furthering access to the world's information and reducing information costs. The following policy describes how we collect and use information we receive from visitors to our site. OCLC is committed to protecting end-user privacy online. If a user submitting personal information is suspected of being younger than 13 years of age, OCLC will delete this information from its records in accordance with the Children's Online Privacy Protection Act (15 U.S. Code, 6501 et seq). Some products may contain additional privacy provisions in their terms and conditions.

How and What Information is Collected

- (1) Personally identifiable information
- a. Personally identifiable information may be collected in conjunction with necessary processes. This information may include, but are not limited to: (1) First and last name, (2) Address, (3) ZIP/Postal Code, (4) Email address, (5) Telephone number, (6) Affiliated library information, or (7) Credit card numbers and other billing information.
- (2) IP Address
- a. The OCLC web site logs IP addresses for system administration purposes. Your IP address can help us diagnose service problems and provide session statistics.
- (3) Cookies
- a. OCLC uses a common feature of Web sites known as a cookie to store your member ID and state information about where you are in the site, as well as to track current and past activity. OCLC does not store any of your personal information in cookies. A cookie is simply a small data file that the Web site writes to your browser. A cookie can't read any other data off your hard drive, pass on a virus, or read cookie files created by other sites. You can refuse cookies by turning them off in your browser, however, the OCLC web site's functionality may be affected.

(4) Registration

- a. In order to take advantage of some features of the site, you must register and create a member account. An OCLC online registration form may require you to provide information such as your name, email address, a User Name, and a password.

(5) Usage and Circulation Records

- a. Any information collected may be used to analyze usage, evaluate service effectiveness and provide training material, and to facilitate library research.

(6) Questions, Comments, and Entries to Open Forums and Reviews

- a. We encourage you to provide personal information ONLY in fields specifically designed for such information such as registration and log-on.
- b. Comments and entries to forums and reviews are posted in real time. Consequently, your entire submission may appear in an open forum or review. Please be aware that any personal information you include within this entry field will be available to the public. OCLC will make reasonable attempts to remove personal information included in submissions.

Why Information is Collected

The majority of the information we collect is analyzed so that we can improve your OCLC experience. This information is not shared outside of OCLC except as described in this policy. If necessary, we will use your information to contact you. Except as permitted by this policy, OCLC does not send unsolicited e-mails

The purposes for collecting information and contacting you are:

- (1) Registration
- (2) Fulfilling requests and orders for OCLC products, programs and services
- (3) Customer service and support
- (4) Providing information and answering questions related to the use and purchase of services.
- (5) Providing updates on goods and services and notification of special offers
- (6) Delivering newsletters
- (7) Providing notification of service expiration dates.
- (8) Facilitating participation in an OCLC Open Forum or Review
- (9) Compiling aggregate statistical and academic analysis

(1) Sometimes OCLC may identify a new purpose outside of the stated purposes listed above and it will provide notification or, if the purpose involves the use of sensitive information, it will seek your consent to use and disclose personal information for that purpose.

(2) Your information will not be used for reasons beyond the scope of the stated purposes and OCLC will never willfully disclose personally identifiable information to a third party outside of the stated purposes unless:

- a. You have violated the Terms of Use or another applicable Agreement, or
- b. We are required to do so by law, or
- c. We provide notification to you

Third Parties

At times, OCLC partners with third parties to complete the stated purposes, and the third parties may require use of personally identifiable information. For instance, information must be disclosed to process orders through the online store, interact with Regional Service Providers, and to market products or services to you. We have taken reasonable steps to ensure the protection of your information, and to prevent the loss, misuse, or alteration of that information.

OCLC uses a third party service for the management and delivery of its opt-in e-mail communication. Their privacy policy can be found at <http://www.whatcounts.com/company/privacy.html>. Information related to the delivery and effectiveness of e-mail communications, such as aggregate open and click-through rates, are provided to and used by OCLC to help deliver the best content to the subscriber.

We currently contract with online partners to help manage and optimize our Internet business and communications. We use the services of a marketing company to help us measure the effectiveness of our advertising and how visitors use our site. To do this, we use Web beacons and cookies provided by our marketing company on this site. The type of information we collect includes pages visited, searches conducted, items selected, and library sites visited. By supplementing our records, this information helps us learn things like what pages are most attractive to our visitors, which designs are most effective for delivering visitors to libraries, and what kinds of marketing efforts our visitors respond to most positively. Although our marketing company manages the information coming from our site on our behalf, we control how that data may and may not be used. If you do not want to help us learn how to improve our site, offers and marketing strategy, you can opt out of our ability to analyze such data by visiting <http://www.omniture.com/privacy/2o7>.

This web site contains links to other sites. Such links do not imply OCLC's endorsement or guarantee of the products, information or recommendations provided by any third party site. Please be aware that OCLC is not responsible for the privacy practices of such other sites. We encourage our end-users to be aware when they leave our site and to read the privacy statements of each and every web site that collects personally identifiable information. This privacy statement applies solely to information collected by this web site.

Opt-Out Features

- (1) To tell us you don't want to receive communication from OCLC, such as email newsletter announcing new features or content, opt out at registration, if available, or send an email to privacy@oclc.org
- (2) You can decline to provide personal information to us or opt out at anytime. However, this may limit your ability to utilize the services on the web site.

Security

We have put in place reasonable measures to protect the personal information contained in our databases. Measures are in place to prevent unauthorized access and maintain appropriate use and accuracy. Furthermore, data that is transmitted in association with our online store is encrypted and is secured by SSL.

Your password is a component of our security system. As such, it is your responsibility to protect it. Do not share your password with any third parties. If your password has been compromised for any reason, you should change it immediately.

Access to Information

OCLC provides links in their e-mail communications and web pages for managing the information that is sent. If you have questions about the information collected about yourself, would like to update or make changes to your information, or are concerned that your information is inaccurate or incomplete please contact privacy@oclc.org. We make a reasonable effort to ensure that information contained in our database is accurate and, when necessary, current.

Contact and Notice

From time to time, we may update this privacy policy. We will notify you about material changes in the way we treat personal information by placing notice on our site. We encourage you to periodically check back and review this policy so that you always will know what information we collect, how we use it and to whom we disclose it.

If you have any questions regarding our policies, please contact privacy@oclc.org or write to:

Terms of Use

Welcome to OCLC Research's Web page. The terms set forth below (the "Agreement") govern your use of this Web site and/or your use of any of the components found at this Web site ("Site"). By using or visiting the Site, you expressly agree to be bound by this Agreement and to follow all terms and applicable laws and regulations governing the Site. If you do not agree with this Agreement, your sole recourse is not to use the Site.

1. Proper Use. The content and software on this Site is the property of OCLC and/or its suppliers or licensors, and such content and software is protected by U.S. and international intellectual property laws. Accordingly, you agree that you will not copy, reproduce, alter, modify, create derivative works, or publicly display any content (except for your own non-commercial use) from the Site. You also agree that you will not use any robot, spider, other automated device, or manual process to monitor or copy any content from the Site unless explicitly stated otherwise. Furthermore, the Site is provided to you for your own use, and it may not be used for any commercial purposes. For example, you may not do any of the following without written permission from OCLC: use the Site to sell a product or service; use the Site to increase traffic to your Web site for commercial reasons, such as advertising sales; take the results from the Site and reformat and display them, or mirror any portion of the Site on your Web site. Any use of the Site that infringes upon the intellectual property rights of OCLC and/or its suppliers or licensors, or that is for commercial purposes will be investigated and OCLC shall have the right to take appropriate civil and criminal legal action. In addition to these terms and conditions, any software that you download may have its own terms and conditions as well.
2. User Contribution and Privacy. OCLC encourages community comments and suggestions on our research endeavors, and reserves the right to modify, improve, or otherwise inform ongoing projects as a result of such input. Any such input should be offered without expectation of compensation, partnership, or recognition beyond the association of the comment with its author in the forum in which it is offered. OCLC shall have the right to retain and use any such Information in current or future products or services, without further compensation to you. To the extent such Information is protectable under intellectual property laws, you agree to cooperate with OCLC as needed to provide such protection as OCLC may desire and you agree to assign your rights to such Information to OCLC. The cost of any such assignment will be at OCLC's expense.
3. No Warranty. Please note that the services provided as part of this Site are experimental in nature. They have not been tested in any manner, and OCLC does not represent that they are reliable, accurate, complete, or otherwise valid. ACCORDINGLY, THE SITE IS PROVIDED "AS IS" WITH NO WARRANTY OF ANY KIND AND YOU USE THE SERVICE AT YOUR OWN RISK. OCLC EXPRESSLY DISCLAIMS ANY WARRANTY, EXPRESS OR IMPLIED, REGARDING THE SITE OR ITS CONTENT, INCLUDING ANY IMPLIED WARRANTY OF MERCHANTABILITY, FITNESS FOR A PARTICULAR PURPOSE OR NON-INFRINGEMENT. Some states do not allow the exclusion of warranty, so the above exclusions may not apply to you.
4. Limitation of Liability. UNDER NO CIRCUMSTANCES WILL OCLC BE LIABLE TO YOU FOR ANY

INDIRECT, INCIDENTAL, CONSEQUENTIAL, SPECIAL OR EXEMPLARY DAMAGES ARISING OUT OF OR IN CONNECTION WITH USE OF THE SITE, WHETHER OR NOT OCLC HAS BEEN ADVISED OF THE POSSIBILITY OF SUCH DAMAGES. UNDER NO CIRCUMSTANCES SHALL OCLC BE LIABLE TO YOU FOR ANY AMOUNT. Some states do not allow the exclusion or limitation of incidental or consequential damages, so the above limitation and exclusions may not apply to you.

5. Release and Waiver. To the maximum extent permitted by applicable law, you hereby release, and waive all claims against OCLC and its employees, suppliers, licensors and agents from any and all liability for claims, damages (actual and consequential), costs and expenses (including litigation costs and attorneys' fees) of every kind and nature, arising out of or in any way connected with use of the Site. If you are a California resident, you waive your rights under California Civil Code § 1542, which states, "A general release does not extend to claims which the creditor does not know or suspect to exist in his favor at the time of executing the release, which if known by him must have materially affected his settlement with the debtor." Residents of other states and nations similarly waive their rights under applicable and/or analogous laws, statutes, or regulations.
6. Modifications of Terms. OCLC shall have the right to modify the terms of this Agreement at any time, which modification shall be effective immediately upon posting to the Site. Accordingly, we suggest that you check this page periodically. To make your review more convenient, we will post a version number or date at the bottom of this page.
7. Violations of Terms. In addition to any legal remedies that OCLC may have for your violation of the terms of this Agreement, OCLC shall also have the right in its sole discretion to suspend or terminate your access to the Site.
8. Hold Harmless and Indemnity. You agree to hold harmless and indemnify OCLC, and its employees, agents and representatives, from and against any third party claim arising from or in any way related to your use of the Site, including any liability or expense arising from all claims, losses, damages (actual and consequential), suits, judgments, litigation costs and attorneys' fees, of every kind and nature. In such a case, OCLC will provide you with written notice of such claim, suit or action
9. No Assignment. You shall not assign this Agreement or assign any rights or delegate any obligations hereunder, in whole or in part, whether voluntarily or by operation of law, without OCLC's prior written consent. Any such purported assignment or delegation by you without OCLC's prior written consent will be null and void and of no force or effect, unless otherwise expressly consented to by OCLC at its sole and absolute discretion.
10. Relationship of the Parties. Notwithstanding any provision hereof, for all purposes of this Agreement each party shall be and act as an independent contractor and not as partner, joint venturer, agent, employee or employer of the other and shall not bind nor attempt to bind the other to any contract.
11. Arbitration. Any controversy or claim arising out of or relating to this Agreement shall be settled by binding arbitration in accordance with the commercial arbitration rules of the American Arbitration Association. Any such controversy or claim shall be arbitrated on an individual basis, and shall not be consolidated in any arbitration with any claim or controversy of any other party. The decision of the arbitrator shall be final and unappealable. The arbitration shall be conducted in Columbus, Ohio, U.S.A., and judgment on the arbitration award may be entered into any court having jurisdiction thereof. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary, OCLC may at any time seek injunctions or other forms of equitable relief from any court of competent jurisdiction.
12. Miscellaneous. If any provision of this Agreement is held to be invalid or unenforceable, such provision shall be deemed superseded by a valid enforceable provision that most closely matches the intent of the original provision and the remaining provisions shall be enforced. OCLC's failure to act with respect to a breach by you or others does not waive OCLC's right to act with respect to subsequent or similar breaches. The failure of OCLC to exercise or enforce any right or provision of these terms and conditions shall not constitute a waiver of such right or provision. The section headings and subheadings contained in this Agreement are included for convenience only, and shall not limit or otherwise affect the terms of this Agreement. This agreement shall be interpreted in accordance with the laws of the State of Ohio. This Agreement constitutes the entire agreement between OCLC and you with respect to the subject matter hereof.
