

Subject: Re: Iraqi Terrorists Torture Prisoners 9635

From: neptune3

Date: 12/04/2004, 23:27

Newsgroups: alt.conspiracy,alt.conspiracy.aberlincoln,alt.conspiracy.alt-config,alt.conspiracy.antichrist,alt.conspiracy.area-51,alt.conspiracy.area51,alt.conspiracy.beyondweird,alt.conspiracy.black,alt.conspiracy.black.helicopters

On Sun, 11 Apr 2004 20:04:02 GMT, ggzncu@mj.shawcable.net wrote:

I have posted recently released pictures of tortured Americans here

"Having read most of the posts under the recent heading ' Are they talking torture' I am amazed at the apparent naivety of most of those posting.- Israel has been using all kinds of torturing methods for decades, knowingly backed by the USA. Within the last year there was an excellent program on Channel 4 England which looked in to the methods used in one infamous camp called Khiam -- a snip below

(Palestinians arrested and 'interrogated' have been and are tortured in one form or another. Although a place of such ghastly atrocities that the Israeli government tried to deny it for many years, the Khiam Detention and Interrogation Centre it maintained in Lebanon from 1985-1999 during its occupation there is one of the most well known (3, 4).) Unsnip.

The channel four programme was not easy to watch - from the many methods described graphically, was that of the wives and children being tortured to make the prisoner confess, the TV team were at the now closed camp - very atmospheric.

One search with Google, showing tens of thousands of different sites will prove to him and anyone else that those in power must know.

A bit from one site =

Israel Shahak, head of the Israeli League for Human Rights, says:

"Slapping the face, beating the head against the wall, and beating all parts of the body are common methods."

Victims are usually beaten by stick, boots, and gun butt all over the body - on the head, limbs, stomach, genitals, accompanied by threats of detaining or raping family members, or making them lose their jobs.

But for Rhateb several other methods were used - he was wired up to electrodes and bolts of high voltage current coursed agonizingly through his body. Later, he was hanged from the ceiling by one arm for hours.

After a few days, a man brought a water jug and told Rhateb that he could drink as much as he wanted. However, acid was diluted in the water and this caused him intense pain and severe burns.

The deprivation of basic necessities should also be considered as a part of this torture; food and medical care are not provided and sleeping is forbidden. Due to such methods, more than 500 Palestinian prisoners have died. More lucky ones suffer diseases while others are maimed and physically disabled.

Last week, Amnesty International's annual report revealed that Israeli forces arrested 1,200 Palestinians in 1997 for "security reasons." Meanwhile, Israel also issued more than 1,900 administrative detention orders and detained 354 Palestinians at the end of year.

Bear in mind, many of these people are not guilty of any crimes. But just living on the wrong side in Palestine.

When doing a search just use the words ' Israel and torture', any way round, you can also use 'camps' John.

But isn't israel a "democracy"?"

John Bates

www.spearhead-uk.com <http://www.natvan.com> <http://www.altermedia.info/> www.nsm88.com
http://www.nationalism.org/rnsp/display_ENG.htm