

Subject: Is Coffee Good Or Bad For You? Part 2.

From: "John Winston" <johnfw@mlode.com>

Date: 31/03/2011, 23:47

Newsgroups: alt.conspiracy.area-51

Subject: Is Coffee Good Or Bad For You? Part 2.
Mar. 31, 2011.

This shows who invented the formula.

.....
.....

And up until a couple years ago, when the Alcer co. changed the labeling on the outside of the box of Emergen-C so that it no longer showed this original diagram of a cell cut in half, and it was actually basically describing this very thing, of how there had to be some kind of electro-magnetic life force in order to be able to really assimilate any nutrients, vitamins and minerals, etc., that they needed to cross the cell wall into the Inner sub-atomic nucleus of the cell, and that it was actually Potassium that is the main Activating ingredient that is able to do this. And what's fascinating is that the Km herbal liquid supplement does contain a huge amount of excellent quality potassium in liquid form. Of course, and is also known, that those supplements in either liquid or powdered form tend to be easier to be utilized, anyway, by the body.. And as I have also shared with many others, many years ago after first starting to use Km (and this effect was kind of similar to when one rubs their feet against a carpet, and they experience a slight static spark given off through one's body). But one day as I had just opened up a new bottle of Km and had just started to drink an ounce out of the bottle literally off the lip of the Km bottle, I experienced a slight spark jump off against my lips, and I was at first startled, but then I had remembered how actual small potassium-calcium--crystals always gradually form in the Km solution while it sits in the bottle over a period of time, because of it being so electromagnetic in nature, and realized that this spark was somehow being transmitted through these small potassium-calcium crystals that had formed in the Km solution. I had also heard an interesting story from a friend back in those early years (back in the late 92s) when I first began to drink and distribute the Km, that a friend of theirs who was some kind of scientist, had actually been able to literally light up a light bulb with the Km solution because according to him, he had been able to somehow get enough electromagnetic life force out of it to do this!

Next, add 15 drops of the G.S.C. to the glass of water. The letters G.S.E. stands for Grapefruit Seed Extract) from NutriBiotic, which comes in a little white plastic bottle, with a red top on it, and the G.S.C. is also printed in big red letters. This product is also very potent by itself, which according to many researchers, it is able to k-ll over 500 viruses, such as candida and strep throat infection, among them). It is also somewhat bitter tasting by itself, but when mixed with the two packets of Emergen-C Lite Vit. C (each packet contains 1,000 mg, with 2,000 mg being the most that our bodies can assimilate of Vit. C at one time), it is no longer bitter, and this is also a great combination as well.

Now, make sure that you thoroughly mix this up well in the glass of water (it is also recommended that you use a plastic or wooden stir rather than a metal utensil, because as the Asians know and they usually attempt not to cook with much metal, that metal causes the chi energy & electrolites to be removed from foods and liquids).

Now pour yourself a whole ounce of the Km liquid Elixir Botanical (which can be ordered through our web site, HealthGalleria.com and also in the Health Galleria section of my web site ChannelFortheMasters.com), by itself, into a small glass container or a one ounce shot glass.

By the way, we have distributed Km since 1987, and which also fulfilled an earlier prophecy from the Masters when I was told by the S-iritual Hierarchy while I was still in Junior High school back in my early teens, that one day when I got cronologically older I was going to redistribute an old Atlantean/Lemurian Elixir product that had come back to the planet since that ancient time. and Km, which used to be distributed by Matol Botanica l [up until 2009], and is now distributed by Univera, was the fulfilling of this prophecy. Also the very famous Channel Tuella, who published several books on the Ashtar Command during the decade of the 90s, several of those being: Project: World Evacuation By the Ashtar Command, Dynamics of Cosmic Telepathy, Ashtar, A Tribute, and On Earth Assignment [which I quote & refer to in my book, Prepare For The Landings!] Because she was getting on in years in the late 90s, and she was in a bad state of health with the possibility of her dying and not being able to complete her mission at that time, Ashtar had personally, separately, told her much earlier that she, too, was going to come upon an Earth Elixir that would allow her to live several more years just long enough to help her stay alive and finish her mission. When I had first shared with her about Km for the first time in 87, she was very excited, as it turned out, that Km was actually what Ashtar had been referring to all along. And I still have, somewhere in my vast library, a copy of her letter that she had sent to everyone that was on her postal mailing list, about this wonderful Elixir that she had been told about, and how it was definitely the Km product.

Also, most people do not know the fascinating and real life story of how Karl Yurak, the original discoverer/creator of this amazing Elixir herbal Botanical drink even first was able to come up with the very unique, molecularly-synergistically aligned formula. Because of his own personal health challenges that he was facing back in 1922, in Vienna, Austria as a young man (which happened to be, at that time, the center for research into Agra-Biology, and he was specifically working for his Doctorial Thesis in Botanicals, and even though at the time he initially did not know just exactly what his Doctorial Thesis was going to be on, but he knew it would be in the science and research about botanicals. But to attempt to make a long story short, he had, none-the-less, upon testing his own blood under a microscope, he had discovered a lot of toxins that he could not figure out, living in a pretty clean, pristine and nonpolluted environment of the Vienna, Austrian area, why he should have detected so many of these toxins in his blood. He also had a very dangerous hobby that of climbing the Australian Alps, and which he would tie or teather himself to his friends, who went with him on many mountain climbing expeditions, so if he or one of them should accidently fall off the mountains, then who ever fell would cause the others to fall with them. And if one combines the high level of toxins as he had observed under a microscope that were part of his own blood, with lower levels of oxygen as occurs at the higher levels of elevation at the tops of those mountains then it becomes a very deadly combination. And, in fact, one day while climbing on a precipice, he suddenly got very weak and started to slip, and became concerned that he might not be able to climb back off of the mountain and might pull everyone else with him if he should fall.

In fact, he started to pray very intensely to G-d, about being able to somehow have enough strength and stamina to be able to get off the mountain that day. It is my belief that this prayer was actually as in a form of a mantra that he had programmed into his consciousness prior to taking Earth embodiment. I tuned into the fact that he was actually a Volunteer soul from the more evolved worlds of the Federation of Light who had incarnated back onto Earth in this recent life to rediscover the very Elixir that he had originally been the Guardian to when he had been a physician of Light back during the ancient times of Atlantis & Lemuria.

This was before the draconian dark alchemists came and infiltrated the priesthood of Adrtlantis, and they are back now as the modern day Big Pharma or pharmaceutical cartel, in charge of the American Medical Association, the Federal Health Agency and the Center for Disease Creation, otherwise more known as the A.-.A., F.-.A. and the C.-.C. These dark alchemists had forced all Elixir substances, like that referred to as Km today, out of circulation, by forcing very controlling draconian laws, similar to the modern corrupt Codex laws, upon the mass population of Atlantis. On a Higher Intergalactic Level, Karl Yurak had been a fellow Cosmic Physician of Light, connected with Zoser and the Knights of the Solar Cross and connected with the Clarion star system, where all the numerous Healing modalities are first developed and passed onto every other star system in the Federation of Light.

But at that life threatening moment on the mountain, Karl had desperately prayed this basic prayer: Please God, if you will allow me to survive today and give me the strength to somehow get off this mountain, I will devote my entire life to not only be able to dramatically increase the oxygenation retention ability of one using the botanical, but also at the same time be able to totally detoxify one's body of any toxins what so ever as well!

Part 2.

John Winston johnfw@mlode.com

