

Subject: The Weather.
From: "John Winston" <johnfw@mlode.com>
Date: 01/04/2011, 16:38
Newsgroups: alt.conspiracy.area-51

Subject: The Weather.
April 1, 2011.

This tells us what kind of weather we might be having this month.

.....
.....

From: Ruth R-den
Subject: [ruth_ryden_newsletter] Newsletter #103 from Ruth and the Masters of Light

NEWSLETTER #103 FROM RUTH AND THE MASTERS

OF LIGHT

APRIL, 2011

April is not fooling us this year, and what has been happening to the world is certainly no joke. The ancient predictions of world-wide catastrophes are hitting the news as today's realities. The saying, You ain't seen nothing yet!, pops into my mind and I am not looking forward to what the Masters might have to say today. Those of us who sit in relatively safe zones must know that we are here for a purpose and need to make our lives measure up to those purposes we originated for ourselves. We are all very tiny bits of universal energy, but every thought, every action, contributes to the whole. Who we are and what we do is part of the entire picture that is being painted of this planet. Sending our thoughts and p-ayers out to help strengthen those who are in such awful situations should be a priority, at sometime during our daily routines.

Funny thing happened to me. My lower dentures simply disappeared a few weeks ago and I spent most of that time searching. Finally gave up and had a new set made. Getting used to them now. First thing that was asked was, do you have a dog? I had never heard of a dog chewing up a denture now I have. Guess they look just like a bone. Sigh.

Masters, please comment on the earth changes now happening, Japan's tragedies, the threat of radiation from the Japanese nuclear fallout, heavy quakes around the world, Mid-east countries rising up against dictators, etc. What can we expect in April, world-wide?

MASTERS: Your world has now entered a strategic time of change, as has been forecast for centuries. Only in the most primitive parts of the planet are there people who are completely unaware that life is changing and the world is undergoing the transition to a new lifespan. The horrors that have entered into the consciousness and lives of millions of people all over the world are no longer kept to their experience alone; they are part of the lives of all of you. The Japanese n-clear plants have opened the reality of radiation poisoning, not only for their islands, but for many parts of the world. A-omic energy can give the world all the energy it needs, but containing and using it properly has still not been engineered to the point of real safety. It is with great sorrow to see this country being p-isoned for many years to come and a large part of it becoming uninhabitable. The radiation fallout will spread to the mainland of China to some extent and the air currents will bring some of it across the ocean to be detected in Hawaii and North America. Being aware of possible contamination should be an ongoing factor regarding growing food. We don't see this as a real danger in North America, but it should be taken into consideration in all ways. Nu-clear facilities in North America and other countries are now scrambling to see that their own plants are brought up to a finer point of safety, even though there are many other factors facing the leaders of the world.

The crust of the Earth where it is titled the Ring of Fire has been very active, as is quite apparent from the great earthquakes that have been bringing down cities in its grasp. There will be more heavy quakes in the coming months, as this part of the world continues to re-position itself during the galactic alignment. We expect movements in the Aleutian Islands and Alaska before too long. The western coasts of North America are becoming unsettled and many small quakes are happening now and will continue to do so for some time. The old volcanoes in Oregon and California are experiencing movement deep in the crust that provide the possibility of new eruptions in the coming months. At this point we don't see any violent eruptions, perhaps just a lot of ash releases. You who live near them should, however, keep on top of what is going on there. The Madrid Fault in mid-America is a deep ancient rift that is now starting to widen, a very little at a time. At this point we are seeing, not a violent quake, but a series of small movements and the land on either side of the fault becoming unstable.

Air currents around the world continue to change rapidly, partly due to the heavy vibrations from the happenings on the earth, but mostly from the rising frequencies that are pouring upon it from the Sun. Tornadoes are popping up in unexpected places, as well as the normal path through the middle of North America. We see them parading much further north in America and hitting Canada in the next few months. Heavy wind and thunder storms should be expected in April, causing more flooding in areas already saturated. Be aware of this possibility, especially in low-lying areas throughout North America. Europe will also be experiencing unusually strong storms, with temperatures that go up and down without any reasonable expectation. Russia will be inundated by melting glaciers and snow, at least bringing water to the dry lands. China will be experiencing some heavy quakes in mountainous areas, amid fierce storms that will wreck havoc on rice crops in some areas. New Zealand is in the position of deep movement of its volcanic origins and even more quakes to come. Australia so far is quite stable, but can expect heavy rain storms, even in the Outback. The Pacific island chains are in trouble, as rising sea levels continue to confront their beaches. The coming months will see a few of them disappear beneath the waves.

The uprisings and revolts in the Mid-eastern countries are the outcome of the rising consciousness of humanity in areas that have been downtrodden for centuries. World wide communication has brought the understanding that they have been robbed of their inherent freedoms and the ability to gain the knowledge the rest of the world has prospered by. The loss of life and the millions of dollars needed by the nations that are helping combat this ancient misconception of leadership, will be considered well spent in the years to come.

Dear ones, this is reality time. You are the generation that have come to witness the great transformation of your beautiful planet into a new planet of beauty and plenty for all. The great deserts and waste lands will become green and filled with new species of vegetation and wildlife. Humanity will be more intelligent as those being born even now are showing dramatic awareness at a very young age. The lessons being learned now are the culmination of millions of years of needful accumulation of experience and wisdom by every one of you S-uls. Take each day with enthusiasm and a willingness to see and feel everything around you, helping each other as much as you can. The giving attitude of the Japanese people during this terrible time for them is a lesson for humanity that should never be forgotten. You are a very special generation use each experience, no matter how difficult, as a step forward during this lifetime and for many more to come.

Question: Last month you referred to a growth spurt for Planet Earth. Would you enlarge on that statement? Does this have anything to do with the atomic plants leaking radiation?

ANSWER: This has to do with the changing crust of the planet. As the earth goes through its current stretching and wobbling, there is new land being built also. The planet is actually becoming larger, as scientists will find in their explorations and figures in the next few years. Of course, not so much larger that the ordinary person will recognize this is happening in inches, feet, etc. This is happening because of the rising heat of the core, which is an inner reactor constantly creating the energy that fuels all living things on the surface. The galactic alignment that is already starting to happen is the instigator of the growth. The Supreme Creative Energy that set into motion the many universes in the void patterned the planets and the myriad other creations of matter to relate to each other in ways that would continue creating and changing for eternity.

Part 1.

John Winston. johnfw@mlode.com