Subject: Disclosure. Part 5 of 5.
April 9, 2011.

This says that a lot of our m-litary personnel have been removed from Japan.

Thousands of sardines, anchovies, stripped bass and mackerel surged along the coast of the Mexican resort in an event believed to be linked to the devastating Japanese tsunami. Delighted fishermen rushed out in wooden motor boats, abandoning their rods and nets and simply scooping the fish up with buckets.

OARFISH WASHING ASHORE A YEAR BEFORE THE QUAKE: ANOTHER HAARP INDICATOR?

These quakes may take a long time to build up to. Japan cut the Old W-rld Order off financially as of two years ago. Almost exactly one year ago, deep-sea fish suddenly appeared on the Japanese shores. Like the fish in Acapulco, this may have been the result of the earthquake w-apons first being turned on. It began just before the massive Chile and Haiti quakes -- which Fulford and others had already associated as HAARP-related strikes from the same insiders.

Apparently, once they were finishing up with Chile and Haiti, they began working on Japan. This also suggests that the technology is far from perfect -- it may well require quite some time to build up to a really large quake.

Oarfish Omen Spells Earthquake Disaster For Japan March 4, 2010

<http://www.telegraph.co.uk/news/worldnews/asia/japan/7365076/Oarfish-omen-spells-earthquake-disaster-for-Japan.html>

The appearance of the fish follows Saturday's destructive 8.8 magnitude earthquake in Chile and the January 12 tremors in Haiti, which claimed an estimated 200,000 lives.

A quake with a magnitude of 6.4 has also struck southern Taiwan.

This rash of tectonic movements around the Pacific "Rim of Fire" is heightening concern that Japan - the most earthquake-prone country in the world -- is next in line for a major earthquake.

Those concerns have been stoked by the unexplained appearance of a fish that is known traditionally as the Messenger from the Sea G-d's Palace.

The giant oarfish can grow up to five metres in length and is usually to be found at depths of 1,000 metres and very rarely above 200 metres from the surface. Long and slender with a dorsal fin the length of its body, the oarfish resembles a snake.

In recent weeks, 10 specimens have been found either washed ashore or in fishing nets off Ishikawa Prefecture, half-a-dozen have been caught in nets off Toyama Prefecture and others have been reported in Kyoto, Shimane and Nagasaki prefectures, all on the northern coast.

According to traditional Japanese lore, the fish rise to the surface and beach themselves to warn of an impending earthquake - and there are scientific theories that bottom-dwelling fish may very well be susceptible to movements in seismic fault lines and act in uncharacteristic ways in advance of an earthquake....

"In ancient times Japanese people believed that fish warned of coming earthquakes, particularly catfish," Hiroshi T-jihi, deputy director of the Kobe Earthquake Center, told the Daily Telegraph.

"But these are just old superstitions and there is no scientific relationship between these sightings and an earthquake," he said.

MARCH 19TH: U.S. PERSONNEL COMPLETELY EVACUATE JAPAN -- IN MASSIVE NUMBERS

By March 19th, it seems that the game was over. The Japan operation was far too sloppy. As Fulford wrote in his private blog, the Japanese knew it was not an accident -- as well as many others who follow alternative media.

Over 200,000 US personnel had to evacuate Japan -- not because of a radiation threat, but because they had been "kicked out." This may well have been the final straw that led to various insider agencies signing off on the Disclosure plan.

200,000 US Personnel Evacuating from Japan to US West Coast Cities

<http://www.kirotv.com/news/27248974/detail.html>

SEATTLE, Wash. -- Thousands of U.S. military and Department of Defense personnel are being voluntarily evacuated from Japan to Seattle and Joint Base Lewis-McChord following last week's earthquake and tsunami. The USO confirmed Friday that 15,000 U.S. personnel and their dependents will be hosted at USO centers at SeaTac and JBLM in the coming days. The evacuation is part of the U.S. State Department's voluntary evacuation of U.S. personnel following growing concerns at nuclear plants in Japan. About 6,700 people are expected to arrive at SeaTac and 8,000 at Lewis-McChord, the USO said. The USO centers will act as a hub for military support.

The News Tribune reported that about 240 military members and their families evacuated from Japan arrived at Sea-Tac Saturday morning, the first of a wave of several thousand expected to arrive in the Puget Sound area this week.

"There's about 190 children and 50 adults who just passed through customs," said Don Leingang, executive director of the local USO, which is helping feed the arrivals and help them to connecting flights.

"It's pretty eye watering, if you really want to know." Leingang told The News Tribune that the next flight is due Monday.

The USO is seeking donations as they plan to support an influx of people in the coming days. Donations can be made online at www.usopsa.org.

The USO said about 200,000 U.S. personnel are being evacuated from Japan to U.S. West Coast cities including San Diego, San Francisco, Los Angeles and Seattle/JBLM.

ANOTHER LAST-DITCH MOVE AGAINST THE BRICS ALLIANCE BY SARAH PALIN

Sarah Palin may have been guided to make a direct attack against BRICS on March 20th -- the day after the mass exodus of US personnel from Japan was announced.

Palin tried to get India to distrust China -- thereby weakening the alliance.

This is most likely what various advisers told her to say.

Palin Tries to Warn India About China

<http://www.dailymail.co.uk/news/article-1368060/Sarah-Palin-warns-China-preparing-launch-military-offensive.html>

The former Governor of Alaska and reality TV star Sarah Palin has suggested China is preparing itself to launch a military offensive.

She questioned why the Far East country was stockpiling ballistic missiles, submarines and new-age, ultramodern aircraft seemed unjustified when it did not face an outside threat.

What's with the military buildup? She said. China's military growth can't just be for defensive purposes.

FIGHTING THE PROPAGANDA

Again -- by this point I hope you can see that what these insiders told me has a credible, trackable story behind it. Not all of these elements I mentioned may be a part of it, but there are enough clues to make a compelling suggestion.

If everything I'm hearing is true, then Disclosure will be moving forward soon. And if it doesn't move fast enough, BRICS will do it themselves.

There is a massive propaganda effort underway to make Disclosure as negative as possible -- to create maximum fear of extraterrestrials once the truth is known. I will go into much more detail about this in my next article.

I want to see Disclosure move way beyond the simple idea that extraterrestrials are real. That's only the kindergarten class. We have the potential for a much more incredible body of information to come through.

I have been working as hard as I can to insure that Disclosure can be steered in a positive direction -- with scientific evidence that is undeniable, rather than hearsay, speculation and conspiracy theories.

Imagine what could happen if the concepts I'm about to share with you could become commonly known and understood. If my book gets the attention it deserves, everything I'm saying here is a logical outcropping of the science I present in it.

In the next part of this article, you'll get a deeper look at what the insiders have told me -- and how the scientific aspects I have arranged fit in.

This will be coming soon -- no more two-week breaks.

Believe me -- I am very glad that my schedule is finally freeing up -- but come August, you will find out that the book will have been very well worth the sacrifices I had to make to get there.

FIRST UPDATE: INCREDIBLE RESPONSE!

The morning after I wrote this, the moderators informed me that we are getting tons of comments coming in! Each one must be read and approved -- it's not automatic -- so please be patient. Our hit counters are still totally malfunctioning in the aftermath of our site upgrades to prevent against hackers... but wow -- thank you all so much for your kind words and support!!--
