Subject: The Life Of Ellie.

April 9, 2011.

Here an explanation of the life of my internet friend Ellie.

Here is a preview of a recent phone discussion between Steve Beckow and me that he decided to turn into a report - since you and I have been in personal communication re: my clone and other subjects, I decided to send you the report he is going to post on his website so you can have it to read at your convenience - or delete if not interested - your choice.

Here is. The strangest story ever told. I raise a glass to you!

I have a sheaf of papers in front of me at the moment and the very worst thing that could happen is for them to fall on the floor and get out of order so I'd better write them up right away. I've just gotten off the phone with Ellie Miser. It's 11:11 on May 5, 2011. And, when Ellie began to tell me about her life, I quickly reached for a pad of paper and wrote down what she said. I have to tell you that I have just heard the most incredible story I think I may have ever heard in my life. I've read stranger and have watched stranger movies, but never talked to anyone with as novel a life story. Ellie had remarked yesterday that she'd be curious to hear my voice and I thought to myself that I'd be curious to hear hers as well and so I arranged to call her today via Skype. I'm not a phone person usually and neither is Ellie. If something doesn't result in writing, I'm usually not attracted to it movies, chats, phone calls. Be that as it may, we spoke for easily an hour and thankfully a version of Ellie's life has emerged on paper and here it is.

Ellie's Fianc, Plen

Plen considers himself her fianc at this time, instead of mate, as he wants them to have a formal Earth type wedding when she returns to her Father's ship, the ISIS. He likes the idea of vows since he has been studying Earth's B-ble in his spare time. I asked her if she remembered the Pleiades and she said not a lot. She said her Higher Self had agreed that she would get back her Pleiadian memories when she returned to the ship. I asked her how her cloned body was doing, not the usual conversational question, I admit. She said that Plen monitors her physical condition constantly and fixes whatever goes wrong almost immediately things that are life threatening and/or painful. When she told him that she was worried she was getting cataracts, Plen told her not to worry about it which suggested to her again that she might not be here much longer. Perhaps that's why we had our conversation. Plen is a great experimenter and risk-taker and quite a clown, she said. I asked her if Plen was lonely and Ellie said that she goes on board the ship in sleep and sometimes physically. Plen can bi-locate (as can residents of the Mental Plane). He has 125 ships at his disposal. She knows she goes to the ship physically as she had proof of that one night while visiting a friend in New York. She awoke one night in her second story bedroom to see, in the bright moonlight, an arm clad in light silver/blue material laying beside her right arm that was resting at her side. She reached over, touched her arm, felt the touch, then touched the arm next to hers and realized it was someone else's! She saw a hand reaching to remove the pillow from between her knees, then blacked out. She was later told she was permitted to be awake for that brief time for reassurance that Plen is real, not a figment of her imagination. He had come to take her to the ship for healing/balancing as she was not happy with where she was and the situation she was in. Once lonely for her company, and she for his, he came to visit her in his etheric body (or possibly in physical) by using the ship's transporter illegally without permission. She kept her eyes closed during the visit for fear he would disappear if she looked at him or she would see him and pass out from shock.

He crawled into bed with her but when she touched his hand accidentally, still with her eyes closed, he became aroused and had to leave quickly as a 5th dimensional being touching a 3D being while not fully manifested could do serious harm to either one or both. When he returned to the ship, he was reprimanded for his tom-foolery and confined to quarters for a time out. (People are the same all over the universe!)

Since Ellie has her sight and hearing abilities blocked, she cannot see Plen, but she has a friend who can both see and hear Plen and her Father so he relays message to her while they are on the phone with each other when she needs to be told something otherwise, Plen and/or her Father stand by, observing and listening to the conversation.

In past, Plen had permission, on rare occasions, to exchange bodies with Ellie's son for five or ten minutes at a time. On those occasions, Plen had to squeeze his seven-and-a-half-foot frame into her son, Jerry's, six-foot body and confessed that it could be a confining experience. While Plen was in Jerry's body, Jerry transferred into Plen's body on the ship where he and Haiton, Ellie's father, could watch and listen to their conversation on a 3D viewing platform.

Incidentally, Jerry is also from the Pleiades he was Ellie's son there as well so he is 50% Earthian/ 50% Pleiadian. When Jerry was born, he came in with a different language in his memory so he didn't speak until he was in his fourth year. Ellie and her husband had his hearing tested, thinking he might be deaf. Jerry said he just didn't have anything to say until he decided to talk. He also had technical knowledge that was extraordinary he was removing transistors and resistors from radios and placing them in color codes at age 3, alongside his Earth father, who was also unusually skilled in electronics.

Over time, Jerry found it confusing to have Plen's memories that remained after Plen left affecting his emotions toward Ellie - so the visits stopped after one last 1-1/2 hour visit around 12 years ago.

As Plen came into Jerry's body, he spoke Pleiadian to Ellie and she had to ask him to speak English because she did not remember Pleiadian. I asked her to describe how Pleiadian sounded and she said it was a very sweet and melodic language but we couldn't find a comparison that we would be able to recognize.

Ellie's Mother and Father

Ellie's mother put her Pleiadian body into stasis alongside Ellie's to come to Earth and give birth to Ellie. She was a deeply devoted mother both on the Pleiades and on Earth. When a body is put into stasis, it is sometimes empty, the s-irit having gone elsewhere.

Her father had been waiting so long for her mother to return to the ship that a Pleiadian, Vesna, agreed to activate her mother's body and live in it for a while to provide her father with the companionship of his beloved mate, Ellie's mother. Vesna retained her own memories and Ellie's mother's memories which allowed her to interact as Ellie's mother would have.

This arrangement lasted for 15-20 years, then Vesna became homesick for her own family and friends back on the Pleiades and there was no indication of how much longer Ellie and her mother would be on Earth so she exchanged bodies again, putting Ellie's mother's body back in stasis. Last year, Ellie's mother, at the age of 101 years plus, finally released her Earth body and returned to her Pleiadian body and now stands at her husband's side, waiting for Ellie to join them.

Ellie's father is ... not exactly royalty, not exactly a king, but definitely a ruler.

We don't have this kind of situation on Earth. Kings and queens used to say they were di-inely appointed though they were and were'nt.

They were in the sense that all events are divin-ly appointed but they were not in the sense that Ellie's father is. On the Pleiades, rulers are not elected it is an inherited assignment. Since Ellie is Haiton's only child, she will be expected to take on his duties when he decides to retire. Even though everyone is equal, she said there needs to be a leader, a father or mother figure. His is a patriarchal energy. When he retires, it will be Ellie's

and she will bring a matriarchal energy in for balance.

Ellie's father is a fragment of G-d in a different sense than we all are. He is considered their supreme leader, but still only a first among equals. She said it is her understanding that the Creator creates sublevels of Itself and assigns them to rule over the many worlds, It has created in the various universes of Creation. I was reminded of Je--s or B-ddha.

I related to her the history of a ruler in the Astral Planes, as told by Monsignor Robert Hugh Benson, and she agreed that the same description of a ruler, who was more of a counselor and facilitator than a monarch, would fit for her situation as well. I may publish Benson's description. We are not used to thinking in terms of hierarchy but it does exist on other planes and sp-rit realms.

I look forward to visiting Queen Amppa when I can travel galactically. I know we will have a good laugh and drink of a delicious concoction she calls Vermillion, because of its color, which I assume she will materialize.

Ellie said that her father's ship is powered by huge crystals of various colors for different energy requirements and she believes most, if not all, ships are living organisms that can change their shape when the need arise such as more sleek design when traveling for least friction or larger to accommodate masses of people or equipment, etc.

Ellie has a friend who knows that she (not Ellie) is a ship on another level of existence. She can feel the pulsing of her energy source and feel the huge size of her body. I have heard as well from other sources, perhaps S-eldan, perhaps S-LuSa, that ships are living organisms. Ellie said everything Go- created has life, not just ships. How can it not be true if all is created from energy that is constantly changing and moving.
