

Subject: Morgellons. Part 5 of 5.

From: "John Winston" <johnfw@mlode.com>

Date: 15/05/2011, 07:03

Newsgroups: alt.conspiracy.area-51

Subject: Morgellons. Part 5 of 5.
May 14, 2011.

At the end of this article I will attempt to tell you who wrote the first two books of the Good Book.

.....
.....

Osama bin Laden was already d-ad

A more palatable theory for those who want to believe both that bin Laden is de-d and that the U.S. go-ernment is perpetrating a vast fraud, this one actually has been around for years. The gist of it is that bin Laden died of kidney failure or was ki-led by U.S. troops in Tora Bora and that his body has been frozen for a decade, held as a trump card that two different administrations have been waiting to play. Different people give different reasons for why O-ama would play the card now, 17 months before the election. Some say to bolster his flagging ratings, others to distract attention from his birth certificate issue. Urging everyone to buy gold, one blogger claims bin Laden's dea-h was faked in order to distract the public while Ob-ma s-ole everyone's pensions to pay for the national debt. Iran's intelligence minister, Heidar M-slehi, also saying bin Laden had been dead for years, claimed that the t-rrorist's ki-ling was a hoax meant to distract people from an Islamic awakening.

No Women in the Situation Room

While not exactly a co-spiracy theory, this at least qualifies as a bit of unexplained intrigue: One Hasidic J-wish newspaper appears to be boldly proposing that no women were with the pres-ident and other sec-rity chiefs in the Situation Room during the raid on bin Laden's compound. Most people are familiar with the now-ubiquitous photograph, which rocketed to the top of flickr within days of being released, showing O-ama, Joe B-den, Hillary C-inton and other administration honchos in the Situation Room. Well, the Brooklyn-based Hasidic newspaper Der Z-itung Photoshopped Hillary Cl-nton and administration official Audrey To-ason out of the photo. The paper had no comment on its photo, but many conjectured that the picture was doctored either because of editors' concerns about immodesty or desire not to show women in positions of power.

Josh D-ieza is a reporter at The Newsweek D-ily Beast company.

Source: Yahoo News
http://news.yahoo.com/s/dailybeast/20110509/ts_dailybeast/139806wackiestosamabinladenconspiracytheories_1

- THAT OL' BL-CK MAGIC DEPARTMENT -

Allies of Iran's Pr-sident Accused of Invoking Djinns

Iranian power struggle between pre-ident and supreme leader sees arrests and claims of undue influence of chief of staff.

Close allies of Iran's pre-ident, Mahmoud Ah-adinejad, have been accused of using supernatural powers to further his policies amid an increasingly bitter power struggle between him and the country's supreme leader, Ayatollah Ali K-amenei.

Several people said to be close to the pr-sident and his chief of staff, Esfandiar Rahim Mas-aei, have been arrested in recent days and charged with being "magicians" and invoking djinns (sp-rits).

Aya-deh, an Iranian news website, described one of the arrested men, Abbas Gh-ffari, as "a man with special skills in me-aphysics and connections with the unknown worlds".

The arrests come amid a growing rift between Ahm-dinejad and Kham-nei which has prompted several MPs to call for the president to be impeached.

On Sunday, Ahmadi-nejad returned to his office after an 11-day walkout in an apparent protest over Khomeini's reinstatement of the intelligence minister, who the president had initially asked to resign.

Ahm-dinejad's unprecedented disobedience prompted harsh criticism from conservatives who warned that he might face the fate of Abdulhassan Bani-adr, Iran's first post-revolution president who was impeached and exiled for allegedly attempting to undermine clerical power.

Ayatollah Mesbah Yaz-i, a hardline cleric close to Khomeini, warned that disobeying the supreme leader - who has the ultimate power in Iran - is equivalent to "apostasy from God".

Ahmadi-nejad has so far declined to officially back Khomeini's ruling over Heydar Moleski, the minister at the center of the row. In the first cabinet meeting since the president returned, Moleski was absent.

Khomeini's supporters believe that the top-level confrontation stems from the increasing influence of Masaei, an opponent of greater involvement of clerics in politics, who is being groomed by Ahm-dinejad as a possible successor.

But the feud has taken a metaphysical turn following the release of an Iranian documentary alleging the imminent return of the Hidden Imam Ma-di - the revered saviour of Shia Islam, whose reappearance is anticipated by believers in a manner comparable to that with which Christian fundamentalists anticipate the second coming of Jesus.

Conservative clerics, who say that the Mahdi's return cannot be predicted, have accused a "deviant current" within the president's inner circle, including Masaei, of being responsible for the film.

Ahm-dinejad's obsession with the hidden imam is well known. He often refers to him in his speeches and in 2009 said that he had documentary evidence that the US was trying to prevent Ma-di's return.

Since Ahmadinejad's return this week, at least 25 people, who are believed to be close to Masaei, have been arrested. Among them is Abbas Amrifi, head of the government's cultural committee and some journalists of Masaei's recently launched newspaper, Haft-e-Sobh.

On Saturday, Mojtaba Zolour, Khomeini's deputy representative in the powerful Revolutionary Guard, said: "Today Masaei is the actual president. Mr Ahm-dinejad has held on to a decaying rope by relying on Masaei."

Source: The Guardian
<http://www.guardian.co.uk/world/2011/may/05/ahmadinejad-allies-charged-with-sorcery>

-A GOOD DAY TO STAY IN BED DEPARTMENT -

Paralyzed by Friday the 13th

Millions who suffer from Friday the 13th phobia prefer not to tempt fate.

Most Canadians will brave ice pellets hailing from the skies, rush-hour traffic and roads covered in black ice to get to work. But some won't be able to face the thought of leaving their homes on Friday the 13th.

The good news for friggatriskaidekaphobiacs, people with Friday-the-13th phobia, is that there is only one this year. The bad news: it's today.

This day, tied to numerous myths and superstitions, happens at least once a year. But never more than three times a year.

How to see one coming? Look out for months that start on a Sunday. There will be a Friday the 13th 12 days later.

Historians and mythological experts haven't been able to pin down exactly how this fear started.

Anxiety related to the number 13 is evidenced by numerous upper-crust hotels in Vancouver that don't have a 13th floor.

There's no estimate on how many people in Canada suffer from friggatriskaidekaphobia, but somewhere between 17 million and 21 million Americans are affected by the fear, according to the Stress Management Center and Phobia Institute in North Carolina.

"It's been estimated that $800 or $900 million [US] is lost in business on this day because people will not fly or do business they would normally do," said Donald Dossey, founder of the institute.

But is there evidence to support and enable the fear?

One 1993 study, published in the British Medical Journal, found that the traffic accident risk increases by as much as 52 per cent on Friday the 13th, compared to a normal Friday.

And other less scientific data shows some eerie findings related to the day.

This includes: the shooting death of rapper Tupac Shakur on Friday, Sept. 13, 1996; the Uphaar Cinema fire in Delhi, which killed 59 people and injured 103 who were trapped behind locked doors on Friday, June 13, 1997; and the crash of Uruguayan Air Force flight 571 on Friday, Oct. 13, 1972, which led to the immediate deaths of a quarter of the passengers, plus deaths in the days that followed as survivors succumbed to cold, injury and an avalanche that killed eight.

But fear not, there are ways to ward off bad luck. A practical one would be to have confidence in your own luck, or perhaps to stay positive throughout the day.

Remedies with folklore origins would perhaps suit those with superstitious tendencies. For example, it has been said that luck can be improved on this day if you climb to the top of a mountain or skyscraper, and burn all the socks you own that have any holes.

If you are an omnivorous yogi or gymnast, you can do a headstand while eating a piece of gristle or cartilage.

There are certain activities that also best be avoided: needlework; harvesting; beginning a journey or going out to sea; getting married; moving; or starting a new job.

One that you can no longer avoid, but has been suggested to be part of the list, is hearing or reading about the news.

But for those who can't avoid those activities and can't participate in said remedies, just put on a pair of red underwear. That's how the Chinese, myself included, avoid bad luck.

Source: The Vancouver Sun
<http://www.vancouver.sun.com/health/Paralyzed+Friday+13th/4777292/story.html>

Please Visit the Friends of Conspiracy Journal.

UFO Digest - www.ufodigest.com

Cosmic Horizons - Wednesday at 9:00pm EST.
www.blogtalkradio.com

PSI TALK-
www.psitalk.com/index.php

The Paracast -
www.theparacast.com

UFO Casebook -

www.ufocasebook.com

UFO Magazine -
www.ufomag.com

Badlands Radio With Capt. Jack:
<http://www.thebadlandsradio.com>

The Paranormal View:
www.theparanormalview.com/

(JW I was loaned a book called OASPHE by Ralph Squire and it said the following information about the two books of the Good Book:

page 522, verse 17.

The scribes and recorders assenbled in Kona and appointed Feb-ya (an Egyptian), to write the departure of the Israelites out of Egypt. And Fey-re wrote the account and called it the Exodus of the Hebrews,----- Feb-ra account was later accepted by Ezra and is what is now known today as the First Book of Exodus.

The book of Genesis as it stood in the Egyptian record was written by Akaboth and Dureum and Hazed and was the substance from whitch Ezra copied it through his scribes, even as it to this day.)

Part 5 of 5.

John Winston. johnfw@mlode.com