PICTURE EXCLUSIVES ...

... THE NAVY SEALS THAT SHOT BIN LADEN
President Obama reveals that the world's most wanted man lived for five years in a gingerbread house in a cake shop in Candyhar. 'The gingerbread men must have known he was there', the Pre-ident said before returning to Never Never Land.

The Bin Laden compound.
White House sources say the walking sticks were used by the man they called the 'pacer'.

Bin Laden taken aboard a US helicopter to be buried at sea. The White House released the picture last night to quell rumours that they were lying through their teeth. 'It looks genuine', said the mainstream media.

The official report on Bin Laden's demise issued by the White House press office.
Hello all ...

Well, what can you do except laugh and shake your head in the face of the shocking levels of nonsense issuing from the Obama government and the world's mainstream media this past two weeks?

It has been an insult to the intelligence and so, therefore, no insult at all to the mainstream media parrots and the billions around the world who have believed this monumental crap about the 'shooting' of Osama bin Laden. Their intelligence is not insulted because you can't insult something that doesn't exist.

One of two things is happening here given the ludicrous official fairytale spewing from the lips of the oh, so dark, Barack Obama, and his cronies and handlers. Either they are starting to get really desperate or they think that the public and media will believe anything.

In fact, probably both are true.
Yes, they are getting more desperate in their race to lock down the world before enough people wake up sufficiently to stop them. And, yes, the mainstream media and billions of people will believe anything you tell them - the last two weeks have proved it.

The moronic masses gathered at the White House chanting 'USA, USA' after a president who has yet to prove he was even born in America told them that a man who died long ago had been killed again. Quite a feat; and also an alarming confirmation of how child-like alleged adults can be.
Hey, the president has just said the moon is made of green cheese and the tooth fairy is real.
'Tooth fairy, tooth fairy ...'

But times are changing and a very large number of people don't believe a word of it - and nor should they. The official cover story for 9/11 was easy enough to take apart, but the killing of 'Bin Laden'?? Jeeez, where do you begin?

US military intelligence (it's all military intelligence, not civilian) is supposed to have kept the 'compound' (a house, but compound sounds more threatening) in Pakistan under long-term surveillance and noticed a man going for walks in the garden. The official story says they he was given the nickname 'the pacer', and although they thought it was Bin Laden they could not identify him for sure with the surveillance technology they had.

Okay, yes, I believe them. I mean, they can photograph your number plate from space, but they can't identify a man walking regularly in a garden open to the sky. Mmmm, yes, that seems to make sense doesn't it?

Well, it does to a mainstream journalist or an i-iot chanting 'USA, USA'.

Osama bin Laden was widely known before 9/11 to have been suffering from kidney failure so serious that he needed dialysis treatment. A French television report, based on information gathered by Radio France International and the newspaper, Le Figaro, said in 2001 that in July of that year Bin Laden had been admitted to an American hospital in Dubai for kidney treatment and had been visited by the local head of the C-A.

C-S News also reported that Bin Laden was having kidney dialysis treatment the night before 9/11 at a hospital at Rawalpindi in Pakistan and an Arab newspaper reported that he had died from natural causes in December 2001 - see here ... I was specifically listening to the reports about the Bin Laden 'compound' for mention of any dialysis equipment. Eventually it was mentioned in the context that they didn't find any. Wow, maybe he prayed to P-pe John Paul II like the French nun I mentioned last week. It's a miracle! Five years in that 'compound' with no treatment for serious kidney malfunction and somehow he survived long enough to be shot.

The alleged visit by the CI- chief in Dubai makes sense given that Bin Laden was brought to global prominence by American military intelligence to be the figurehead of the US-created, trained and funded 'Mujahedeen' (which morphed into the 'Taliban') in the war against the invasion and occupation of Afghanistan by the Soviet Union in the 1980s.

Zbigniew Brzezinski, the former National Security Advisor to Jimmy Carter and long-time 'mentor' (handler) of Barack Obama, told a French news magazine that he had arranged for the Mujahedeen in Afghanistan to be trained and funded to threaten the Soviet satellite government in the capital, Kabul, to trigger an invasion and give the Soviet Union what he called 'their Vietnam'.

Across North Africa and the Middle East today, American, British and Israel-controlled agent provocateurs and carefully-trained 'rebel leaders' are manipulating genuine protestors to play out the same basic script used by the US in Afghanistan with Bin Laden.

It is now known, for example, that General Khalifa Hifter, the latest 'leader' of the 'rebels' in Libya, is a long-time paid CIA asset who has lived for some 20 years in the Greater Washington area of Virginia - which is where you will find the La-gley headquarters of the C-A. He was the figurehead over this period of the CI--funded Libyan National Army 'in exile' - the same blueprint that they used with Iraqi exiles in London in the years before the invasion.

As one newspaper report said: 'The new leader of Libya's opposition military spent the past two decades in suburban Virginia but felt compelled even in his late - 60s to return to the battlefield in his homeland, according to people who know him.'

Just like the George Soros (R-thschild) front-man, Mohamed ElBaradei, also felt compelled to jump on a plane to Cairo when the protests started there and now says he plans to stand for the Egyptian pre-idency. What an open book it is when you know how the game is played.

Osama bin Laden has been reported to be dead many times since 9/11 - including by the then Pakistan President Pervez Musharraf in 2002 and former Prime Minister Benazir Bhutto shortly before her very possibly related assassination in 2007. How he died years ago continues to be speculated - illness, the US military or some other way; but one thing is absolutely for sure. The claim all along that they didn't know where he was is b-oody nonsense.

A US go-ernment insider called Dr Steve Pi-czenik has been very vocal in the last two weeks about the fake Bin Laden shooting and the phony 'wa- on t-rror' and he has become a sort of overnight 'star' for many in what they call the 'truth movement'.

I find much of what he says about Bin Laden's health and ultimate fate to be very credible, but other assertions seem way off the mark to me.

I have never met him, but the dark suits that this Fellow of the C-uncil on Foreign Relations has served and worked with in gove-ernment are some of the foulest I-luminati manipulators of the last 50 years - he has been a Deputy Assistant S-cretary of State and/or Senior Policy Planner at the State De-artment under Henry K-ssinger, Cyrus Vance, George Schultz and James Baker. He was also involved with the Ki-singer clone, Lawrence Ea-leberger. Baker, Shultz and Kiss-nger with one of their gofers in gover-ment, Condoleezza R-ce.

That is some serious bad company to say the very least, and I am justly wary of someone who has trained in psychological w-rfare who claims to be telling me the truth about what is happening in the world. Like I say, I haven't met him, but the fact that he is still an advisor or consultant to the Department of De-ense makes me wonder why they would continue to employ someone who appears to be exposing the agenda of the very same Dep-rtment of Defense/State Department c-bal.

But then, we must remember that even if he is not all that he claims to be, the best disinformation is a mix of mostly truth that is corrupted by untruth and diversion. It is what I call 'gin and tonic with a twist'. And with Piecze-ik, there is, in my view, a twist in the tale for whatever reason.

A great deal of what he says is certainly true and I am glad it is being said, but I don't like the way he blames everything on 'civilian pres-dents' and seems to dismiss the idea of se-ret networks when every pr-sident is just a puppet of those very networks. He must know that, surely.

He also focuses the blame for the engineered 9/11 on people like Donald Ru-sfeld and Paul Wo-fowitz at the Departm-nt of Defense and on B-y Bu-h and C -eney. Yes, they were involved in the sense that they knew what was coming and Wolfowitz and Che-ey would have been much more heavily involved in the planning.

It is again good that this is being said, but they are still the small fry of the 9/11 c-nsspiracy - not the masters behind it.

Anyway, Piec-enik said on the Alex Jones radio show in the Un-ted States in early 2002 that Bin Laden was de-d and that his body was 'on ice' waiting for the optimum moment to announce that he was no more.

(JW I still don't claim to know exactly what happened to Bin Laden and when it all happened. One day I'll be convienced it was one way and then after looking at the tapes made about his life I sort of think the other way. Only time will tell.)
