

Subject: Baking Soda.

From: "John Winston" <johnfw@mlode.com>

Date: 10/07/2011, 06:36

Newsgroups: alt.conspiracy.area-51

Subject: Baking Soda.

July 9, 2011.

Here is the latest to come down the pike about The Big C.

.....
.....

Curing C-ncer with Baking Soda:

*What MDs and Naturopaths Don't Know *

**

*by Gregory D-laney

*

*

http://www.bamboo-delight.com/download/Cure_Cancer_with_Baking_Soda.htm

*

Wouldn't the delusional physicians and the big pharmacology s-indlers be embarrassed to find that ca-ncer could be cured with nothing more complicated than ordinary baking soda? Well, no, they wouldn't be embarrassed because they would be outraged. All of their billions in profits vanishing in a twinkle, would not have these betrayers of Mankind at all happy with such a simple ca-ncer cure. And yet, can-er can be cured with nothing more complicated than ordinary baking soda. And I will explain how.

**

*While the greedy physicians and the -ancer industry r-bber barons have been using every imaginable method for treating the symptoms of can-er, and while millions of people have suffered and d-ed under the most astounding variety of mechanical, chemical, bio-technological and radiological absurdities, little progress in c-ring can-er has actually been made. And why? Well, to understand why, you would have to understand _who_ is treating c-ncer before you can understand _why_ it is not being cu-ed. Who are these can-er physicians who claim to know so much yet fail to do anything useful? *

**

*Firstly, they are people who admit that they don't know the cause of can-er or how to cu-e it. And yet they insist that they be allowed to practice medicine anyway! These oncologists admit that no matter what they do, you are going to di- anyway, and so why not let them do something since they can make better use of your money than you can. Even though they admit that they don't know what they are doing, they offer you just two (and only two) choices: (1) let them cut-poison-irradiate-and-transplant you which includes a free estimation of how long you will live or (2) do nothing at all which also includes a free, but much shorter, estimation of how long you will live. And so, with such limited choices, most people prefer to bequeath their savings account to the doctors for choice number one. At best, the physicians promise to drug you into unconsciousness so that you do not feel any pain either from your tumors or from their bi-ling department. *

**

But what happens if you don't take their advice and choose alternative medicine, instead you know, the choice that the doctors never mention to their patients? Since it has been proven that hospital patients live longer when the doctors go on strike, then alternative medicine is obviously better than a placebo. But they never mention that, either.

**

Secondly, these oncologists with all of their fancy degrees and years of microscopic confusion are really nothing more than disciples of f-aud. This fr-ud is known as ♦symptomatic m-dicine♦. And these can-c-r physicians prove their idiocy on a daily basis by classifying ca-cer as a ♦d-sease♦. Would it be a joke on them if it was discovered that ca-cer really is not a disease at all but merely a ♦symptom♦ of something else? Hundreds of millions of d-ing can-er patients would certainly not be laughing. And millions of billionaire Big P-arma sw-ndlers would not be laughing, either. Would it be a joke if it was discovered that can-c-r is not a dis-ase at all and that these swin-ling greed-bags were actually _mistaking the symptoms for the dise-se_? I don♦ think there would be much laughter in finding this to be true; but it is true. And here♦s how this simple cu-e works.

**

The can-c-r q-acks who are known as ♦modern physicians♦ (or oncology engineers), all know that there are many things that cause ca-cer. Does this ring a bell in their mighty brains? No, of course not. If there are many things that cause can-er, then how can can-c-r be classified as a dis-ase? Isn♦ it true, rather, that the many causative agents are the di-ease while the manifestations of tumors and malignancies are actually the symptom? This may seem strange but think about it a bit. And you alternative practitioners had better think about it a bit since the physicians have already proven that they are on the wrong track and haven♦ thought about it enough.

**

If many things cause c-ncer (radiation, chemicals, viruses, sunlight, etc.) then even the dumbest physician knows enough to remove the primary cause. So, patients who work in the bright sun or in chemical factories are advised to avoid these situations. Hooray for the doctors who have common sense! But why are they so few?

**

Once you remove the primal cause, you are still left with a growing malignancy. (I am referring to the growing tumor and not to the doctors and the Big Pha-ma executives, themselves.) This ca-cerous growth has certain attributes that the id-ot d-ctors overlook because they have been trained to use the most expensive methods possible for producing the largest possible profit for themselves and for their hospitals and for their d-ug suppliers. And after extracting all possible savings accounts, checking accounts, real property and insurance benefits, they send the dy-ng patient home after saying, ♦We have done everything that we can do.♦ No, I don♦ think many people will be laughing to discover that ca-cer can be -ured with baking soda.

**

But even after the primary cause of the can-c-r is removed, why do the cance- cells keep growing? The doctors say because c-ncer is a d-sease. However, these practitioners of ♦symptomatic med-cine♦ are mistaking the disea-e for the symptom. It is more accurate to say that the can-er is not the di-ease, itself, but is rather the symptom.

**

The m-niac oncologists cut and radiate and p-ison and burn the ca-cer cells in an attempt to k-ll them. But the alternative practitioner prefers to let the powerful defenses of the body do all the work. And why? Because the body can take care of itself just fine as long as you provide it with what it needs to do the necessary he-ling. In this case, first remove the causative factors of ca-cer (such as the oncologists and Big Ph-rma r-bber barons) and then get to work on the underlying causes.

**

All ca-cer has some common denominators that the physicians think are inconsequential. But if you think about it a little bit, you will see that the oncologists are full of themselves and not full of knowledge. What they think is the di-ease, is actually the symptom. And what they think is inconsequential is actually the tiny, little cause for all of this suffering and di-ease. It♦s a joke on the doctors, but nobody is laughing.

**

*Here♦s how it works. Normal cells that turn can-erous have specific jobs to do. Brain cells do brainy things, heart cells are on a bungee-jumper's rush, liver cells strain today's whis-ey, kidney cells strain the beer and save the water, bladder cells hold the nasty stuff that the others strain, and skin cells enjoy a good suntan on a summer day. They all do different jobs. But when they turn cancerous, they throw all of that specialization aside. *

**

Cancer cells do not evolve; they de-olve. They do not perform the task specified in the blueprints of DNA, but they rebel and go it alone. Cancer cells give up being a high level technical worker in the body and become instead the lowest form of life. Worse than any truant teenager all they do all day is eat, excrete, reproduce and do it all while holding their breath. While holding their breath? What is this little detail that is overlooked by the oncologists?

**

*That's right. Cancer cells don't require a lot of oxygen to live. In fact, it is this low oxygen level that allows them to thrive. Or to put it in a way that even a physician can understand: Cancer cells become cancerous not because they are the disease but because they are normal cells reacting to the causative factors of disease. That is, cancer cells become cancer cells because they are normal cells that cannot live in any other way. They are following the First Commandment of Life: Thou must live. And in order for them to live, they must give up their specific functions in the body and devolve to a lower level of Life that is not so demanding of them. They become cancer cells in order to survive, not because they want to be cancer cells. *

**

From this perspective you can say that cancer is normal. It is not a disease but rather it is the reaction of certain cells in the body to stress factors that cause these cells to choose devolution to a cancerous state as a means of cellular survival. They give up being highly advanced cells brain, heart, liver, kidney, skin, etc. and take a step downward to a lower function. They become cancerous as a survival strategy because nature only gives them this choice or they must die. Cancer is the reaction of cells to various factors that will cause their death if they do not devolve to a lower, cancerous state.

Part 1.

John Winston. johnfw@mlode.com