This is Matthew, with loving greetings from all souls at this station. For several decades there was so little evidence that Earth's very life was being saved that no one had any idea something that momentous and unprecedented was underway. The first decade of this millennium, however, was filled with occurrences that motivated thinking people to start connecting the dots, so to say, and by now the signs that significant changes are afoot are unmistakable.

Stock markets' two wild weeks is because the Illuminati no longer can control them, one means whereby they have amassed unimaginable fortunes. Their manipulations still have some impact on transactions as prices rebound in one country or another before plunging, then rising again, but it won't be long before their former stranglehold is removed totally and a new basis for banking and commerce can begin operating.

The exposure of Rupert Murdoch's media empire's influence in government circles and underhanded methods of obtaining information will lead to breaking the back of this kind of mass mind programming. Through lies, distortions and strategic omissions in mainstream media reporting, the Illuminati have been publishing or airing only the information they want you to know and think about; they, just as you, know the power of thoughts.

The plight of millions of Somalis who are on the verge of starvation has been forcibly brought to the world's attention by light-filled individuals. Other lightworkers are assisting the refugee population, but governments that could alleviate this unconscionably grave situation are bogged down in bureaucracy or corruption and pledges of aid are not being honored.

Rioting and large scale destruction in London and other cities in England is likely to spread as deep-seated anger and discouragement about conditions that are making the poor poorer so the rich can become richer. While looting and burning doesn't touch the root of the problem, without the means to take necessary corrective measures, the participants are using available methods to express desperate feelings about their lives and future.

It is that same desperation that led to the fierce battles in countries where dynastic or despotic regimes have long oppressed the peoples. The difference is, the freedom fighters have a semblance of organization, weapons, and official recognition from some other countries; and they are willing to give their lives to change intolerable conditions they no longer can abide.

Recently the United States held the world's attention as the members of Congress bickered until the eleventh hour about raising the debt ceiling, and now they are in recess instead of resolving the country's critical problems. This government is beset with unyieldingly-partisan politicians who seem to be focusing on ideological differences instead of working in the country's best interests; that they are, but many also are acting out of self-interest and egotism.

As disparate as those situations may appear to be, they are closely related; all are prime examples of the duality in humankind. One side wants to maintain all systems and policies that are their power base, the other side wants changes to uplift their lives and offer a brighter future for their children. Duality prevents individuals from seeing a situation from others' perspective, so instead of reasonable, rational discussion that results in a sensible conclusion to benefit everyone, blind stubbornness prevails.

Another aspect of duality is blaming others for unsatisfactory circumstances instead of accepting responsibility for contributing to them and taking determined steps toward prudent, positive changes. People in the United States and other countries who are blaming President Barack Obama for the economic unrest in his country that affects other nations too aren't recognizing that his essence is not of duality, but of unity. While most leaders who speak about wanting to unify opposing blocs within their countries mean everyone accepting whatever the leaders themselves want, President Obama's vision and leadership is to unify hearts and minds to achieve harmonious cooperation for the betterment of all.

It is far easier to choose or accept in pre-birth agreements a mission of major importance than it is to carry it out once in third density, where darkness abounds. President Obama has been up against the darkest of the dark ones ever since he took office, and even though his light has not diminished one iota, the stress of relentless opposition to what he wants to accomplish for Earth and all of peoples has noticeably taken its toll.

Although some members in this government and other countries' governing bodies also have retained their light, they too are swimming against the formidable tide of the Illuminati and those they control through bribery, blackmail or death threats. The momentum of the light is turning that pernicious tide, and both the dark backlash and the many souls who still are unaware of Earth's ascension are causing confusion and upheavals.

When the populace can't understand what is going on, they rely on political and financial analysts to make sense of it, and those experts unwittingly are adding to the confusion because they don't know either why things are happening as they are. They can only base their various diagnoses and projections on the past, and history will not be repeating itself—the long era of duality has served its karmic purpose in your world and is coming to an end. What you are seeing is its last gasp, with good reaching best and bad reaching worst, and as Earth continues her journey into higher planes of vibrations, those extremes will be reconciled by the light, wherein there is balance.

We have alerted you that there would be bumps in the road in these last stages of world transformation as everything based in darkness is brought to light, as systems immersed in corruption and deception fall irremediably and new systems devised by individuals with wisdom and spiritual and moral integrity are instituted. Also we have told you that the Illuminati have managed to keep hidden the truths that let them become so powerful, and this has prevented disclosing those truths and initiating reforms slowly so people can more easily assimilate them. The multitude of relations and profound changes that will be emerging before Earth enters fourth density at the end of your year 2012 means that bumps are going to come faster than many people can easily handle.

You can! Along with experience in overcoming obstacles in this lifetime, your innate wisdom and the readiness spiritually, emotionally and psychically of collective lifetimes have prepared you to successfully manage whatever upheavals you may encounter. The many who still have not awakened don't know that they also have this fortification, perhaps to a lesser extent than you, but they wouldn't be on Earth if they were not equipped to handle adversity—helping to triumph over adversity is why they chose to be there! But in their slumbering state, they are letting their intuition lie dormant too, and they won't understand that the disclosures and reforms that will be coming rapidly are final steps leading to Earth's Golden Age, and they will be fearful. Fear is what will make their road bumpy, but they won't understand that either.

When the highest universal council planned the Golden Age, it was anticipated that some souls that clamored to embody during the transitional period would succumb to third density limitations and forget their eagerness to be a part of it. Primarily the forgetful souls are those who wanted to complete third density karma so they could evolve with the planet into fourth density, if not physically, then in Nirvana, your spirit world that is ascending along with Earth. Knowing of that possibility, the council wisely included in the plan many volunteers from spiritually and intellectually advanced civilizations to be the vanguard and help the forgetful souls to the extent they are receptive.

Your foremost assistance as lightworkers is to lessen fear, so do not hide your light under a bushel, so to say, but let it shine brilliantly. The energy of your calmness and confidence will emanate to those nearby and help them in that respect. Sharing your knowledge with whoever is willing to listen is important as well. Some will ponder it, those on the verge of awakening will embrace it, and others will react negatively, as close-minded persons do rather than consider that new information may be valid.

Individuals whose rigid beliefs are founded on false relig-ous dogma and flawed science will be the most resistant◆their beliefs are the very foundation of their lives or their livelihoods. And when the facts about ◆9/11◆ and the reasons for w-rs in Afghanistan and Iran◆ALL wa-s!◆are revealed, families and friends of all who d-ed may be disbelievers because knowing why their loved ones di-d could be overwhelming. All of these people need compassion and understanding◆they will be able to accept the truth after they transition to Nirvana.
