This talks about the color of space.

Your welcome OP. Don't abandon us like so many do. now i'm back can't stay here forever but it really feels great letting curious folks in on a bit. Like a weight off my chest. I admit i don't know everything about this stuff, not even close. but I feel happy sharing what I can. All that taxpayer money going to stuff like this and normally you aren't even told it exists! but change is right around the corner. I've never seen so much activity/excitement among the brass and civilians than I have the last 6 months. some just don't want to change and keep it all to themselves. but they are finding themselves to slowly be in the minority on that viewpoint. I think we may be heading in the right direction as far as the s-crecy. These guys are paranoid by nature and rightly so. But even they realize this is too big to keep sec-t. humanity deserves to know.

I have read that space is really blue not dark like NA-A has fed is. Is this accurate?

It is pitch black.

Did you go to flight school in Corpus Christi or Pensacola?

I understand your curiosity. i don't want to talk about personal stuff though.

I was just asking because I want to be a Na-y Pilot and have been looking it up online. From what I understand if I join and pass basic I would probably go to Pensacola. Which is fine with me. The way I see it if you can land a plane on an Air Craft Carrier, then you are one of the best pilots in the world.

You are 100% correct. carrier landings are insane. good luck kid.

OP can you say what the furthest distance from earth you've traveled is? Another star system?

About 250 ly, others much much further, and still heading out.

OP do other nations of earth have a Space Command, or is US alone in this ability?

Ok i'm not privy to all of this, but obviously from working in this field i will tell you what I have seen. Yes and yes. Some other guys are up there, the usual suspects, but so far we see they are only sporting conventional or just a bit more advanced than conventional N-SA type tech. They mainly stay in L.E.O. and don't cause much interference with our operations. They are just a nuisance at this time.

So what are you talking about happening like first contact or something like that?

As far as elenin, i just hope we have some ham radio operators out there who can listen to to it. We need to learn about ourselves and our heritage. elenin may help with this.

OP thanks!!! for answering. You're point of view of the depth and beauty of space is uplifting for us earth bound ones. A final question about Elenin.... will it be so bright that it might light up the night sky like a double full moon or similar?

You'd have to ask an astronomer. i'd guess its too small to be any sort of visual spectacle UNLESS, it becomes active that way also. that would be amazing. anything is possible.
And yes, my first trip out there was a G-d smack in my face with the sheer beauty and awe. quite a humbling experience any one of us would benefit from. I hope one day everyone can.

Hey OP, Can you tell us what hidden technology, in your opinion, would be the most valuable to humanity if released to all?
Do we have the technology to end most of the suffering on this planet?

We have a whole bunch of amazing stuff. Yes we could end suffering and turn the planet into a total paradise. Nothing makes my bl-od boil more than this. But there is hope. there are some men, a few with vision that are in the right positions now that maybe you'll start to see some of it. I really think we are heading that way.
I guess I didn't answer you question. This is why I think this stuff has been kept in sec-ecy.
They use nat.sec. as an excuse but its really to protect the o-l profits. However fukushima has really rattled them.
I am just a peon when it comes to this kind of policy, but there seems to be an internal struggle with one side wanting to get this stuff out and the other side being paid off to keep it secr-t. this is where I better shut the heck up. but you get the idea.

Have you observed other civilized planets?

Yes, city lights from space, very similar if not identical in some cases to our cities.

Thanks. Still didn't even throw us a bone with a specific heretofore unknown tech., But that's OK. We don't want you to get intspace is actually more energetic than matter. The trick is figuring out how to get it because there is very little to no energy gradient.
But they have figured it out long ago.
No need to ever pay another electric bill again or fill your tank up. They could desalinize all the ocean water they wanted for almost free and irrigate the deserts. The possibilities are unlimited. Greed can only hold out and suppress this for so long.

OP do you know what this is:

And does your propulsion system for traveling l.y. away has anything to do with a bogey owned by Ra and orbiting the Sun:
[link to img167.imageshack.us]
Haven't seen Ra out there yet, lol.
If you really want to see some neat stuff, buy a pair of 3rd or later gen night vision goggles and spend some time looking up with them.

OP, this crop circle represents the interception of Elenin by an antimatter weapon orbiting the Sun. It will depolarise Elenin's EM field represented by the small rocked thunderbolt at the tip of Apophis head and render the asteroid benin against Earth's EM field. I doubt the Na-y Space Command has such a powerfull device to fulfill the work.
[link to www.cropcircleconnector.com]
If it is destroyed, that would be a travesty. There are some out there who could do this. i just hope whoever is making the crop circles is wrong about this one. elenin has been given a lot of doom and gloom press. It is quite the opposite. A beacon of hope and a glimpse into the past. A glimpse into who we really are perhaps, from all the clues that have been gathered. Our guys are going wild like school children on xmas eve when it comes to this thing. I'd love to go back myself.

David W-lcock got an anonymous tip that Air F-rce Space command was mining Element 115 somewhere in the Hercules constellation.
Could this be correct?
Mining element 115? sounds like science fiction. is David Wi-cock a science fiction writer?

OK... OP... Appreciate that you can't share the actual vehicle designation.
Can you give some idea of the technology involved?
Thanks...

There are various advanced methods of propulsion. one time the discovery channel of all places aired a show about 5 years ago that spoke about some of these techs, at least the early days of it and i almost spit my coffee out watching. It had 'advanced aircraft' in the title. I really which I would have dvr-ed that show as I can't remember the whole title and I have searched for it and never found it. I couldn't believe my eyes when I saw what they were talking about. Almost 100% accurate with nice graphics and visualizations. Someone spilled the beans. i'm sure its been yanked but that show would have really wet your whistle.

Perhaps it wasn't yanked and i can't find it. i suggest looking for this and see if you can find it.
as much as i'd like to share. i really can't go there. i'm sorry.
but i will share this small tidbit. there are those that create their own sort of wave and ride it like a surfer.
think about Einstein, when they drop a ball in a sheet to demonstrate how timespace gets warped by matter.
they jokingly say we have front wheel drive. we are pushed not pulled and it certainly feels that way even though they say the inertia is canceled i swear i feel the 'pull' that's all i will say on this. sorry to be vague.

So you have no information on the Nemesis Dwarf Star. Dr Bill Deagle and company claims it will be visible from the Southern Hemisphere with a high power telescope in about a month. And will start wrecking havoc on earth in about 5-9 months?
Never heard of it.

Op: To your knowledge, what year did mankind (our current society) successfully breach the Van Allen Belt? TIA.
i guess i should know this. the apollo missions?

Op - have you seen any angels out there in your travels?
Also, have you seen the so-called approaching "ribbon" or cloud of energy that Sickscent has done so much research on, and that the Boeing and NA-A insiders have spoken of as threatening our planet?

You can't see the ribbon but its funny you bring that up. That has been a HUGE concern for the scientists. They put out a cover story that it was the solar wind being reflected back, but that is baloney. Its hard to tell. Another poster just mentioned the van allen belt, which we don't even think about because we are protected from it. I wouldn't say it was a force field but all EM and radioactive particles cannot penetrate our craft. The system is so good that there is less radiation inside our craft than on the surface of the earth, including going through the ribbon.
