Subject: The Blown Up Underground Bases May Have Not Been A N-clear Blast.
Sept. 21, 2011.

This get more confusing as be go along on this story but now they say it was sonic attack.

David W-lcock Update, Wednesday, September 21, 2011
(among other significant things) It Was Not a Nu-lear Attack (and a free Science 101 Lesson)

"One of this blog's reader pointed out that David wrote another update to his last article, and I found it quite enlightening (Mahalo, Santa Fe R-ger).

Recall yesterday's ALW-Tolec post, where Tolec..." stated that the August 23 quakes in VA and CO were each caused by a concentrated sonic pulse.

Well, David now reports that it was not a nu-lear attack and that the highest-level intelligence sources we have on this subject have now informed us that no rad-oactivity was detected in either of the destroyed areas -They have now concluded that both bases were destroyed by an instantaneous twenty-fold increase in air pressure.

Here are a couple other pieces from his update.

There is nothing left in either of these areas. Everything in them has been crushed to tiny particles of rubble. There is no point in ever trying to access them again or redevelop. The damage is total.

No one knows how such an event is even possible. There is no record of any attack like this ever having been done before within the insider world.

Ful-ord's sources seem very clear about who did this and why it was done. Nonetheless, this attack does not resemble any known terrestrial technology regardless of how classified it may be.

Sonic pulse devices which operate in a similar way to these ultrasound devices I would surmise are available within the m-litary. If such a pulse (one might call it a grand cavitation) were generated, it might generate a high pressure cavitation (as is generated with ultrasound) which, if the frequency were properly chosen, could disintegrate whatever it was pulsed at, or into. This would create the same type of disintegration which David's sources report.

I'm not a sonic we-pons engineer, but it makes some sense that such is what could have happened, based upon what I know of sonochemistry.

Still, bottom line, even after all of this wonderful scientifically based theoretical surmising, that does not prove that a sonic we-pon was used. At this point, still, no one apparently knows what it was.

Now here is David's latest update.

UPDATE WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 21, 2011

Nineteen years ago today, I stopped using all intoxicating substances and never went back. I don't miss it. In much the same way, it would appear that a worldwide addiction is finally breaking and we won't miss it either.

The negative e-ite have hit bottom. What happens from here is anyone's guess, but let us all hope for a quick surrender so that more lives are not lost.

Unfortunately, their tendency has been NOT to surrender, and we cannot expect they will. Additional destruction may be required. There is evidence suggesting they are still planning further moves, as I will discuss.

IT WAS NOT A NUCLEAR ATTACK

I am happy to report that the highest-level intelligence sources we have on this subject have now informed us that NO rad-oactivity was detected in either of the destroyed areas.

What they DID find is now considered a baffling mystery. I acknowledge in advance that this seems difficult to believe. They have now concluded that both bases were destroyed by an instantaneous twenty-fold increase in air pressure.

Let me spell it out for you in plain terms. There is nothing left in either of these areas. Everything in them has been crushed to tiny particles of rubble.

There is no point in ever trying to access them again or redevelop. The damage is total.

No one knows how such an event is even possible. There is no record of any attack like this ever having been done before within the insider world.

Ful-ord's sources seem very clear about who did this and why it was done.

Nonetheless, this attack does not resemble any known terrestrial technology regardless of how classified it may be.

THIS MAY HAVE BEEN ET-ASSISTED

Therefore, this may have been an ET-assisted attack consistent with the China's October Surprise series I've been documenting here.

It may be that a massive quantity of air was portaled into either base. Portal technology does exist, but it certainly has never before been used like this and it's not even clear how it could be done.

It is also possible that some unknown technology was used to expand the size of the air molecules within the bases by a factor of twenty.

Russian s-alar technology can make things get much hotter or much colder, and can create destructive impulses, but there is no record of anything like this ever having been achieved.

PERSONNEL MAY HAVE BEEN SPARED

If ETs were responsible, and used advanced portal technology, it may also be that at least some, if not all of the personnel in these facilities were moved to a safe area before the attack was conducted.

If this is the case, none of them have been able to or allowed to make contact as of yet.

VERY SIGNIFICANT DREAMS COMING IN

I had lamented yesterday that the full scenario of how this 2012 shift will happen is still not clear.

This morning, one of our staff had a very intense dream. In this dream, the Roman Empire was still around, and had not ended.

(This staff person had not read the whole article and was not aware of Fulfo-d saying that the I-luminati is just a continuation of the Roman Empire.)

In this dream, some people had now achieved an Ascended state and were putting these folks on trial.

This very same morning, I had a highly unusual dream where a sp-ritual healer worked on my head, and as he did so, an iris opened up on the top of my head.

It looked like an advanced extraterrestrial device.
As the iris opened, brilliant white light burst out. I felt a very powerful electrical sensation that went about three inches into my head, and I also had a unique experience of every vertebrae in my neck getting a spontaneous chiropractic realignment.

THIS MAY BE HOW IT HAPPENS

The SFI book does give a variety of compelling data points suggesting people will be able to Ascend into the next level of human e-olution while here on earth.

However, these dreams seem to be hinting that this process could occur while others are still here in their former human forms. It is interesting that I asked for clarification and this was the answer!

OUR WEBMASTER CAUGHT A GREAT SYNCHRONICITY

Another interesting coincidence was that our webmaster checked the front page of the site earlier today, and right as he did so, the hit counter for this article was at precisely 200,000.

He took a screen capture of it for all of us to see:

This was a nice synchronicity, and the meta-message seems to be that everything we are seeing happen at this time is part of a s-cred plan to restore peace and order on earth.
