  - c.. Prophet Samuel, 11th century B.C. R-ligious leader in Israel who served as prophet, priest, and last of the Hebrew judges
  - d.. Hesiod, circa 700 B.C., Greece. Poet whose writings serve as a major source for knowledge of Greek mythology and cosmology
  - e.. Plato, 427 - 347 B.C., Greece. He studied with students of Pythagoras in Crotona and scholars in Egypt. He established his own school of philosophy at the Academy in Athens.
  - f.. S-int Joseph, 1st century A.D., Nazareth. Husband of M-ry and Guardian of Je--s
  - g.. Saint Alban, late 3rd or early 4th century A.D., town of Verulamium, renamed St. Albans, Hertfordshire, England. He was the first martyr in England. He had sheltered a fugitive priest, became a devout convert to Chr-stianity, and was put to de-th for disguising himself as the priest so he could die in his place.
  - h.. Merlin, England. Seventy years after his embodiment as Alban, he returned as Merlin. He assisted King Arthur at Camelot and inspired the establishment of the Order of the Knights of the Round Table.
  - i.. Proclus, circa 410 - 485 A.D., Greece. The last major Greek Neoplatonic philosopher, who headed the Platonic Academy in Athens and wrote extensively on philosophy, astronomy, mathematics, and grammar
  - j.. Roger Bacon, circa 1220 - 1292 A.D., England. Philosopher, educational reformer, and experimental scientist; forerunner of modern science renowned for his exhaustive investigations into alchemy, optics, mathematics, and languages
  - k.. Organizer behind the scenes for the S-cret Societies in Germany in the late 14th and early 15th centuries A.D. The creation of a fictional character named "Chris-ian Rosenkreuz" was apparently inspired by his efforts.
  - l.. Christopher Columbus, 1451 - 1506 A.D. Believed to have been born in Genoa, Italy and settled in Portugal. Discovered America in 1492 during first of four voyages to the New World sponsored by King Ferdinand and Queen Isabella of Spain
  - m.. Francis Bacon, 1561 - 1626 A.D., England. Philosopher, statesman, essayist and literary master, author of the Shakespearean plays, father of inductive science and herald of the scientific r-volution.
    - a.. Francis Bacon made it appear that he died on E-ster Sunday, April 9, 1626, and he even attended his own "funeral" in disguise. Francis crossed the English Channel, and se-retly traveled in disguise after 1626 through various areas of Europe with the assistance of the Brotherhood of Light. He continued to write under pseudonyms, as he had done before 1626, continuing to write as late as 1670 using the pseudonym "Comte De Gabalis" to write a treatise about the Pranic Life Forces of Nature.
      - b.. He traveled secr-tly to Transylvania (now part of Romania) to the Rakoczy (RAKczi) Mansion, where he continued preparations for his physical Resurrection and Ascension under the direct training of the Mas-er R (Great Div-ne Director). He had incarnated in that area a number of times in previous lifetimes and felt particularly at home there. Since Francis Bacon was sighted in the area at various times over the following decades, some local people speculated that he might be a member of the Rakoczy family (possibly related to Prince Ferenc Rakoczy II of Transylvania). Not wanting to leave humanity in the physical octave without His direct visible assistance, Francis asked the Karmic Board for a special Dispensation to allow Him to function publicly in a physical tangible Resurrection Body among embodied mankind. He was granted this request, and on May 1, 1684 Francis Illumined and Raised his lower bodies, with full Christ Mastery of the Forces of Nature - thereafter functioning in his Resurrected Body.

c.. Francis became the "Wonderman of Europe" in the 1700s A.D., working with embodied individuals in Europe, England, and America to further the Cause of Freedom and the Advancement of Learning. He used various pseudonyms such as Count Saint Germain, Marquis de Montferrat, Comte Bellamarre of Aymar at Venice, Chevalier Schoening at Pisa, Chevalier Weldon at Milan and Leipzig, Comte Soltikoff at Genoa and Leghorn, Graf Tzarogy at Dresden, and Comte de St. Germain at Paris, the Hague, London, and St. Petersburg. He developed a reputation of being an outstanding alchemist, scholar, linguist, musician, artist and diplomat. He worked behind the scenes to try to establish a United States of Europe and to prevent the bloodshed of violent revolution. His powers included bilocation, appearing at court and then dissolving his form at will, removing flaws from diamonds and other precious stones, and precipitating an elixir that prevented aging. He was also ambidextrous and could compose simultaneously a letter with one hand and poetry with the other, or two identical pieces of writing with each hand. He visited Marie Antoinette and her intimate friend, Madame d'Adhmar, who later wrote the story of his abilities as an Adept, and that he had warned of the coming debacle and death of the king and queen. He also worked behind the scenes with George Washington and Benjamin Franklin to establish the United States of America.

d.. In 1790 Francis confided to his Austrian friend, Franz Graeffler, that after traveling to Constantinople and then on to England, he would be going to "rest" in "the region of the Himalayas". By 1875, he completed his Ascension, and was now known as the Ascended Master Saint Germain. Soon after his Ascension, the Office of Chohan of the Seventh Ray was transferred to him from Kwan Yin. Saint Germain is now known as "The God of Freedom" for the Earth and, since May 1, 1954, the Hierarchy for the "Dawning Golden Age" in this current Aquarian Age cycle. The name "Saint Germain" is the name that Francis Bacon chose as his Ascended Master name upon his physical Ascension. It comes from the Latin Sanctus Germanus, meaning "Holy Brother".
