NEWSLETTER #110 FROM RUTH AND THE MASTERS OF LIGHT
November, 2011

Good Morning everyone! Summer is over and, for many of you, that is a great relief from the storms and harsh weather conditions of the past months. A gentle Fall season has started here in the foothills and the trees are golden amongst the evergreen pines. Doesn't seem fair that our East Coast should be having blizzards and high amounts of snowfall!

Hope everyone is OK! I have finished several weeks of testing that proved that my heart is in good shape and my blood system is running just fine.

Guess you're stuck with me for a long time yet! Payson is still pretty listless regarding employment, no building going on to speak of, and so many depending upon food stamps, etc. We help our grandchildren when we can. Our chimney has been cleaned and our wood shed is full. Hope all of you are ready for the coming winter. A little early to wish you all a Happy Thanksgiving, but I do. We have so much to be grateful for, especially our ability to work through the present difficulties and help others do the same.

MASTERS: There is an important fluctuation progressing through the atmosphere around the Earth now a heightening of frequencies that is even now resulting in the disturbing of weather and climatic patterns. The unusual snowfalls on the U.S. East Coast is the forerunner of these changes, so be aware of forecasts that seem unbelievable. Ground movements throughout the North American Continent will start to be more pronounced as the weeks go by, but we do not see anything of a large magnitude. Arctic ice floes will not form as fast as normal, due to the rising temperatures of the northern seas. The outbreaks of earthquakes all over the world along the old, and new, fault lines are the effects of the Earth's inner furnaces responding to these frequencies. Turkey's quakes will continue for a few more days, and more quakes will be experienced all over the Middle East. Africa's Great Rift will be seen to open new cracks and Iceland's deep volcanic surges will cause volcanoes there to erupt very soon. The gentle quakes along the U.S. West Coasts will continue this month, with the probability of a strong quake near the end of the month. The volcanoes may be seen to emit some steam and ash during this time. The Pacific islands will continue to experience quakes and volcanic eruptions as these ancient volcanic mountains heat up deep in the crust. Sea levels will vary from week to week, but the Canaries are very likely to lose their land. South America is even now experiencing many quakes and volcanic eruptions as this entire continent is being shifted far below. Lowlands are in danger of serious flooding. All of the seas around the world are experiencing changes in their normal current patterns, reflecting the vibrations from the land and undersea mountains. Ship captains are having to be very, very aware of unusual wave action.

Yes, the Sun has a lot to do with all of this, as it has been heating up over the last year. If it seems brighter than usual at times, it is. We do not see a big quake along the Madrid fault yet, but those who live in these states should be aware that that danger does exist. Building on top of a major fault line is not a good idea.

Don't panic! All of these changes have been foretold from ages past, and will continue to happen until the planet returns to its normal orbit around the Sun. It is simply a matter of accepting the weather and listening to your wonderful advanced system of global communication to understand what is happening and where. If you live in quake-prone areas, keep your emergency supplies up to date; if you live near volcanoes, do the same. Simply be aware of what is happening around you and make your plans ahead of time of where to move and what to do.

All of the northern continents will be experiencing very cold winter weather this month, and, of course, into December. Southern Continents will find unusual and much drier weather conditions.

This is the time for humanity to realize that all of these frequency changes are also the cause of the tremendous surge of restlessness and the need for a different and better way of life for millions of people, including even the nations of the world. Struggles for leadership will continue to swamp television and all modes of communication, until there will be a Light of understanding that will bring some peaceful solutions and a big sigh of relief! You are all engrossed in these challenges to transform your world into a way of peace and Love. Let us help you ask for our guidance, then listen to it!

Dear Readers: The subject matter for these newsletters has always been to help humanity learn to realize their own s-iritual background and how to live life with love and self -reliance. However, the reality of the Occupy Wall Street and global protest movements have become a matter of importance to almost all of us. The web is full of predictions about our banks failing commencing November 15th. I am asking the Masters to comment on these movements and the possible monetary failures as to their importance and realistic relation to economic failure or reconstruction of the U.S. and the rest of the world.

MASTERS: There is a time within the birth of a new species and world that the concepts of governing and economic opportunities come to a place where the opinions of too many upset the balance of the need against unrestrained greed for all concerned. This is what is happening all over your world right now. As we have been saying to you regarding the rising of frequencies that affect the minds of human beings, the old teachings and restrictive g-vernmental practices are being strongly questioned and r-belled against. The uprisings in the Middle East are a strong factor that is spreading the discomfort of all inadequate practices, whether they be gove-nmental or economic. The spread between the have and the have-nots has become so visible that even your largest nations are now experiencing protests against their monetary systems.

To begin with, although there is a strong danger of b-nk failures and stock markets going heels-up, we are seeing that global awareness of what is happening is bringing to the front those who do have the knowledge and inner guidance to find solutions that will ease most of these situations and keep the financial world at least crawling upward toward answers that will set up completely new management directions that will gradually spread to all nations and even the smaller countries that are having the same problems.

Astrologic readings are frightening now, as they are reflecting the same problems from a long time ago, but realize that the stars do not control human actions it is given to i-carnated s-ul beings to control their lives and situations with their inner wisdom and accrued knowledge, regardless of where the stars are dancing. This is an a-e of rapid advancement in science and knowledge of the Earth's movements in the universe.

It is occurring so fast that the minds of humanity are placed into situations they are having trouble understanding. There is fear and anger toward the old ways and strong reservations about accepting new laws or concepts that have not been proven to be beneficial to all layers of society. The protesters are bringing these things to light to those who govern and control the wealth of all, and who must now begin to understand that the world's resources must be shared as equally as possible, according to the willingness of all people to work and earn their own income in a fair economy. Will the ba-ks fail and the sky fall in the next month or so? No. Watch for some drastic measures to be taken by those who control these things, for the high-born will not let their golden walls fall around them. If our advice is asked for, simply hunker down and spend as little as you can.

The drain on incomes is not helped by the brainless spending for questionable entertainment, negative gaming, s-x-oriented fancy clothing, alcoholic pleasures, etc., etc. Pay attention to where the money is really going!

TV commercials are ruling the minds of too many who are searching for something the something is within, not on TV. Only buy what you can pay for, if at all possible. Those who are now campaigning for votes in the next election are desperately trying to find answers to the economic problems and some of them will come up with concepts that will really work.

It is now up to humanity to listen to their own inner response to these ideas and put together a new way of gove-ning that will bring about the new world that everyone is shouting about! It is all up to you!
