This talks about teachers.

When the One, and only One, Ultimate Intelligence is acknowledged to be part of your every thought and being, those Dark An-els cannot gain entrance to your minds or hearts. Men and women who are too lazy or too greedy to seek out honest ways of earning a living and finding a sometimes difficult path toward their future goals, often fall prey to those who should NOT be wor-hipped!

For now, enjoy being together with those who are following a path of truth and love. If you attend a certain church, make sure that path is being followed, not just putting on a great performance for the benefit of showing others how spiritual you all are. Many church organizations today have evolved into businesses. Nothing is being taught; the same sermons are preached over and over again, without any real knowledge behind them. Priests who have been denied their natural sexual outlets have been taking advantage of the young children in their churches for their satisfaction, and, finally, this has been brought out into the open and to its ultimate conclusion. On the other hand, we are seeing a new life being born in the old buildings, where young people are given a safe place to learn and play together; ministers and priests are opening to far deeper truths that they ever thought existed and are trying to pass them on to their parishioners.

If you feel caught in a religious experience that controls what you feel or think, walk away. There is so much more to learn and experience than that. Question your religious leaders; find out what they know you may know more than they. Again, on the other hand, give them a chance to teach you, in private, if necessary, what they are now learning.

It is a bit sad to us to see men and women forced apart because of the war between them now relating to the balance of power that should naturally be there. Pressure is on to finally pass laws to pay women the same wage for the same work that men do. It is true that each sex has its own particular abilities and knowledge. Only when those abilities are joined together in close relationships will it be seen how important each is to the other.

Communicate with God in whatever fashion you feel comfortable; do so with the realization there is only One Infinite Creator; see that Creator in the male or feminine focus, or both, if you choose. Realize, however, by limiting your focus you may be missing something. Reach out a little bit sometimes and think on these things. You are where you have arrived in your spiritual understanding perhaps you would like to travel a bit farther?

B-siago and E-senhower reveal "Marsgate" and make case for "Alternative 4"

March 28, 2010

Ei-enhower recruited by Mars colony in 2006

Independent Mars colony recruits Andrew D. Ba-iago and Laura Magdalene Eis-nhower have confirmed the existence of a s-cret human survival colony on Mars in a joint appearance on Exopolitics Radio with Alfred Lambremont W-bre.

Mr. Ba-iago, 48, a Cambridge-educated lawyer who practices law in Washington State, was a child participant in the DARPA time travel program Project Pegasus (1968-72) and later teleported to a U.S. base on Mars twice in 1981.

Ms. Eise-hower, 36, the great-granddaughter of U.S. P-esident Dwight D. Eisen-ower, was the subject of a sophisticated attempt to recruit her into the se-ret Mars colony in 2006 that she broke free from after resisting its deeply rooted manipulations and chose to live out her destiny on Earth.

They described how the secre- Mars colony is funded by b-ack budget mil-tary and i-telligence sources as a survival mechanism for the human genome in the event that solar flares, nu-lear w-r, or some other cataclysm ends human life on Earth.

In the wide-ranging, three-hour interview, Mr. Ba-iago termed the cover-up of the Mars colony "Marsgate" and called for a Congr-ssional investigation of the U.S. presence on Mars, with its emphasis on mil-tary occupation rather than diplomatic engagement of the indigenous human society living in underground cities beneath the surface of Mars.

Ms. Eis-nhower stated that "Alternative 3" - the notion that trillions of dollars of resources should be spent to protect human life by placing it on Mars - should give way to "Alternative 4," a new public awakening to achieve a sustainable civilization on Earth.

Their historic, interactive expos of Marsgate on Exopolitics Radio was based on direct personal experience. For Mr. Bas-ago, this consisted of the two trips that he took to Mars in 1981, when, at age 19, he walked on the surface of the Martian terrain after teleporting there from a C-A facility in El S-gundo, California. For Ms. Eise-hower, this consisted of clandestine efforts that were made in 2006, when she was 33, to infiltrate her personal life and recruit her as a member of the secr-t Mars colony. She was recruited for a mission that would travel to Mars and learned that a colony had been under development there for several decades. It wasn't until later that she found the connection between the mission and the colony, in very significant ways.

During the interview, the two emerging figures in the Disclosure Movement discussed their opposition to factors guiding the s-cret Mars colony. These include fear, secre-y, psychological manipulation of recruits, and the abuse of quantum access technologies and other covert methods to identify potential colonists. Mr. Basiago speculated that the Mars colony is being staffed by individuals who descend from specific A-yan bl-odlines that contain a Martian genetic substrate and that do not represent the genetic diversity of the entire human r-ce on Earth. Ms. Eisen-ower, agreeing, also was exposed to and understood the archetypal aspects and significance of it. They suggested that this policy be reconsidered. In various venues, Mr. Ba-iago, Ms. Eis-nhower, and this reporter have advocated a treaty between Earth and Mars society that would establish a Mars protectorate and normalize diplomatic recognition and immigration between the two planets.

Following the interview, Mr. Ba-iago and Ms. Eise-hower issued a joint statement about human survival colonies on other planets.

It is a positive thing for the human ra-e to put survival colonies on other planets. Earth has been struck by many cataclysms in the past, and so we should protect the human genome by placing human settlements on other celestial bodies. Yet, when se-recy surrounding such projects tempts go-ernment to rob the free will of individuals, and excludes humanity from debating a subject that implicates the whole human future, and diverts the destiny of a planet to serve an off-planet agenda, the conscience of a free people requires that such projects be undertaken in the bright sunshine of public scrutiny, not within the dark corridors of the mi-itary-in-ustrial co-plex.

Eyewitness evidence of the U.S. presence on Mars

With their joint disclosure, Mr. Basi-go and Ms. Eis-nhower - one a crusading lawyer, the other a member of one of America's pr-sidential families - joined a growing cadre of individuals who have stepped forward with eyewitness testimony that reveals the c-vert U.S. presence on Mars. These include Michael R-lfe, who in two documented books describes his 20-year service (1976-1996) as a member of the U.S. a-med forces staffing the sec-et Mars colony, and former D-D scientist Arthur Neu-ann, who has stated publicly that he has teleported to the se-ret Mars colony for project meetings.
