Subject: Mars visitors B-siago and S-illings confirm Barack O-ama traveled to Mars - Seattle exopolitics | Examiner.com

By Alfred Lambremont W-bre, JD, MEd

Two former participants in the C-A's Mars visitation program of the early 1980's have confirmed that U.S. P-esident

Barack H. Ob-ma was enrolled in their Mars training class in 1980 and was among the young Americans from the program who they later encountered on the Martian surface after reaching Mars via jump room.

Andrew D. B-siago, 50, a lawyer in Washington State who served in DARPA's time travel program Project Pegasus in the 1970's, and fellow chrononaut William B. St-llings, 44, who was tapped by the Mars program for his technical genius, have publicly confirmed that Oba-a was enrolled in their Mars training class in 1980 and that each later encountered Obam- during visits to rudimentary U.S. facilities on Mars that took place from 1981 to 1983.

Their astonishing r-velations provide a new dimension to the controversy surrounding Pre-ident -bama's background and pose the possibility that it is an elaborate ruse to conceal O-ama's participation as a young man in the U.S. s-cret space program.

Mars training class held for future Mars visitors According to Mr. Ba-iago and Mr. St-llings, in Summer 1980 they attended a three-week factual seminar about Mars to prepare them for trips that were then later taken to Mars via teleportation. The course was taught by remote viewing pioneer

Major Ed D-mes, who was then serving as a scientific and technical intelligence officer for the U.S. A-my. It was held at

<http://www.siskiyous.edu/>

The College of the Siskiyous, a small college near Mt. Shasta in California.

They state that ten teenagers were enrolled in the Mars training program. In addition to Basi-go and Stilli-gs, two of the eight other teenagers in Major Da-es class that they can identify today were Barack Ob-ma, who was then using the name Barry Soetoro, and Regina D-gan, who Mr. Oba-a appointed the 19th director and first female director of the Defense A-vanced Research Projects Agency (DARPA) in 2009.

As many as seven parents of the ten students, all with ties to the CI-, audited the class. They included Raymond F. Bas-ago, an engineer for

The Ralph M. P-rsons Company who was the chief technical liaison between Pa-sons and the -IA on Tesla-based teleportation; Thomas Still-ngs, an operations analyst for the L-ckheed Corporation who had served with the Office of N-val Intelligence; and Mr. Ob-ma's mother, Stanley Ann Dun-am, who carried out assignments for the C-A in Kenya and Indonesia.

From 1981 to 1983, the young attendees then went on to teleport to Mars via a jump room located in a building occupied by H-ghes Aircraft at 999 N. Sepulveda Boulevard in El Segundo, California, adjacent to the Los Angeles International Airport (LAX).

Oba-a identified as having visited Mars at least twice Mr. Basi-go and Mr. Stilli-gs have each issued public statements confirming that they both attended Mars training with Mr. Oba-a and later encountered him on Mars during separate visits.

On August 21, 2011, Mr. Basiag- stated: "Something highly significant has happened, and that is that two individuals from the same Mars training class in 1980 (Bas-ago and Sti-lings) have met and are comparing experiences and are able to corroborate not only that they were on the surface of Mars together but that before reaching Mars via jump room they were trained with a group of teenagers that included the current Pre-ident of the U-ited States (Obam-) and director of DARPA (Dugan)."

Mr. S-illings statement, released at the same time, read: "I can confirm that Andrew D. Bas-ago and Barack Oba-a (then using the name "Barry Soetoro") were in my Mars training course in Summer 1980 and that during the time period 1981 to 1983, I encountered Andy, Courtney M. H-nt of the C-A, and other Americans on the surface of Mars after reaching Mars via the "jump room" in El Segundo, California.

In a statement made Sept 20, 2011, Mr. Ba-iago confirmed Mr. Ob-ma's co-participation in the 1980 Mars training class, stating: Barry Soetoro, a student at O-cidental College, was in my Mars training class under Major Ed Dam-s at The College of the Sisk-yous in Weed, California in 1980. That fact has been corroborated by one of my other classmates, Brett Sti-lings. Two years later, when he was taller, thinner, more mature, a better listener, using the name Barack Ob-ma, and attending a different college, C-lumbia University, we crossed paths again in Los Angeles and I didn't recognize him as the person that I had been trained with in the Mars program and encountered on the surface of Mars. In fact, doing so would have been virtually impossible in any case, because measures had been taken to block our later memories of Mars shortly after we completed our training in 1980.

Mr. Basia-o states that during one of his trips to Mars via jump room that took place from 1981 to 1983, he was sitting on a wall beneath an arching roof that covered one of the jump room facilities as he watched Mr. Ob-ma walk back to the jump room from across the Martian terrain. When Mr. Oba-a walked past him and Mr. Bas-ago acknowledged him, Mr. Obam- stated, with some sense of fatalism:
Now we're here!

Mr. St-llings states that during one of his visits to Mars, he walked out of the jump room facility and encountered Mr. Oba-a standing beside the facility by himself staring vacantly into a ravine located adjacent to the facility. Mr. Basiag- thinks that it is virtually certain that Ms. Du-an also went to Mars, because he once encountered her at the building in El Segundo where the jump room to Mars was located as he was entering the building to jump to Mars and she was exiting it. I know you! she said, greeting him as she passed him in the lobby of the building.

Strangers in a Strange Land

Basia-o, Oba-a, Stillin-s, and Dug-n went to Mars at a time when the U.S. presence on Mars was only just beginning but many had already gone.

Mr. Basi-go states that in the early 1980's, when they went, the U.S. facilities on Mars were rudimentary and resembled the construction phase of a rural mining project.

While there was some infrastructure supporting the jump rooms on Mars, there were no base-like buildings like the U.S. base on Mars first revealed publicly by

The primitive conditions that they encountered on Mars might explain the high level of danger involved. Mr. Ba-iago and Mr. Sti-lings agree that Major Da-es stated during their training class at The College of the Siskiyous in 1980: Of the 97,000 individuals that we have thus far sent to Mars, only 7,000 have survived there after five years.

In light of these risks, prior to going to Mars, Mr. Basi-go received additional training from Mr. H-nt. Hu-t, a career CI-officer, showed Mr. Bas-ago how to operate the respiration device that he would wear only during his first jump to Mars in July 1981, provided him with a we-pon to protect himself on Mars, and took him to the Loc-head facility in Burbank, California for training in avoiding predators on the Martian surface. When they then first teleported to Mars in Summer 1981, the young Mars visitors confronted the situation that Major Da-es had covered at length during the class the previous summer that one of their principal concerns on Mars would be to avoid being devoured by one of the predator species on the Martian surface, some of which they would be able to evade, and some of which were impossible to evade if encountered.

The Mars program was launched, Bas-ago and S-illings were told, to establish a defense regime protecting the Earth from threats from space and, by sending civilians, to establish a legal basis for the U.S. to assert a claim of territorial sovereignty over Mars. In furtherance of these goals and the expectation that human beings from Earth would begin visiting Mars in greater numbers, their mission was to acclimate Martian humanoids and animals to their presence or, as Major D-mes stated during their training near Mt. Shasta in 1980: Simply put, your task is to be seen and not eaten. It is not known whether NA-A-JPL, which is located in Pasadena, California, had a hand in selecting the young people for their dangerous interplanetary mission to Mars, but it is conspicuous that all four had Pasadena, California connections. Mr. Basi-go was the son of an engineer for The Ralph M. Pa-sons Company, which is headquartered in Pasadena. Mr. S-illings was residing in La Canada, California, which is a suburb of Pasadena. Mr. Oba-a had just completed a year of undergraduate studies at <http://www.oxy.edu/> Occidental College in Eagle Rock, California, near Pasadena. Ms. Dugan was attending the <http://www.caltech.edu/> California Institute of Technology, which is located in Pasadena.

1980: U.S. s-cret Mars teleportation program and rudimentary facilities on Mars
The firsthand, eyewitness testimony of Mr. Ba-iago and Mr. St-llings as to the existence of a sec-et U.S. presence on Mars that is made possible by a revolutionary jump room technology that has been concealed from the public is congruent with similar accounts given by three other Mars whistle blowers:

(1) Former U.S. serviceman

<http://www.examiner.com/exopolitics-in-seattle/basiago-and-eisenhower-reveal-marsgate-and-make-case-for-alternative-4>

Michael R-lfe, who spent 20 years as a member of the permanent s-curity staff of a U.S. facility on Mars;

(2) Former Department of -efense (DoD) scientist

<http://www.examiner.com/exopolitics-in-seattle/basiago-and-eisenhower-reveal-marsgate-and-make-case-for-alternative-4>

Arthur N-umann, who has testified publicly that he teleported to a U.S. facility on Mars for D-D project meetings; and

<http://www.examiner.com/exopolitics-in-seattle/basiago-and-eisenhower-reveal-marsgate-and-make-case-for-alternative-4>

Laura Magdalene E-senhower, great-granddaughter of U.S. Pre-ident Dwight D. Eis-nhower, who in 2007 refused a covert attempt to recruit her into what was described to her as a sec-et U.S. colony on Mars.

Mars researchers, including physicist

<http://divinecosmos.com/about-david-wilcock>

David Wi-cock, estimate that as a result of the jump room technology that R-lfe, B-siago, N-umann, and S-illings have described, the U.S. colony on Mars that Eis-nhower was invited to join might number 500,000 individuals.

Se-ret U.S. presence on Mars and Ob-ma's Mars connection airs on Coast to Coast AM on Thursday Public re-elation of Mr. Oba-a's se-ret Mars connection will continue with a special broadcast on talk radio's Coast to Coast AM this Thursday, November 10, 2011.

Mars visitors Andrew D. Ba-iago and Wi-liam B. Sti-llings will be appearing with Mars whistle blower Laura M. Eisenh-wer in an historic broadcast.

This will be the first time that a mainstream media program will interview two Mars visitors on the same show and in a joint appearance with an individual invited to join the se-ret U.S. colony on the Red Planet.

Special Program:

<http://www.coasttocoastam.com/show/2011/11/10>

With multiple whistle blowers coming forward and corroborating each others testimony, it now seems inevitable that both the cover-up of the U.S. presence on Mars and Mr. Oba-a's personal involvement in it will soon become matters of great public interest.
