I contacted a man and his wife up in Sierra Village, Calif. called Ron and Connie and they are interested in contacting Bigfoot. Connie says that he uncle said he saw a bigfoot back when she was 15 years old and she does't know where he contacted it. This last week I started collecting the table scraps from a pot luck dinner that I go to each second sunday of the month. With about 50 people attending I collected enough to feed about 3 humans.

My friend asked me what type of food I had collected and told Her/Him that I collected some unleavened bread crackers that are used in communion. We then laughted and commented on what the Sasquatch would think when he saw that type food. I also go some lemon pie, corned-beef and cabbage, some roast meat was in it to.

Anyway I suggested that Ron or Connie take the food that I had put in my ice freezer and put it out near the edge of the forrest so they could see it from their house trailer window. I'll also loan them a pair of my good binculars to watch them with. They should put it out about sundown so the birds will be in trees for the evening and won't eat it up before dark.

Conie can see a person's aura and other things so I'll asked her to call the out loud and te-athically like you would call a kitty. Your know here kitty, here kitty. Except say like here Bigfoot here Bigfoot, or just say something like Yip, Yip, Yip.

Do this each day and first thing you know the bigfoots will be waiting for you and we or she can take their picture.

I also now a place that I saw on a trip sponsored by Robert Stanley where a Pteridoctile was seen in time past. This was in Calimu near Malibu, Calif. I figure he can be coached into getting his picture taken in the same method that I'm using on the Bigfoot.

I got in another letter from Rory Griffin, the man who wanted to make the movie like the X-files, called Ancient X Files, about the Dogon people of Africa. He says his business is a little crazy sometime in getting shows out the door and we missed the boat in getting out that one, but he is still intersted in it and I put him in contact with my Community Channel Science/faction friend called Hank Grey, because Rory wanted to know more about him.

.....

I've read on the internet somewhere that there are live hairy mammoths still walking around in Siberia but I haven't got around to checking the story out yet.

.....

I'll keep plugging along. The normal is easy to the accomplished, the impossible takes a little longer.
