On May 20, 2012, rare solar eclipse alignment will happen between the Earth, the Sun and Alcyone in the Pleiades Constellation. According to myth, the hunter Orion was in love with the SEVEN SISTERS and pursued them until the g-ds took them to safety, transforming them first into doves, and then into stars. Maia, the eldest of the seven Pleiades, gave birth to Hermes (Thoth).

The Pleiades are a well-known sight in the Northern Hemisphere in winter and in the Southern Hemisphere in summer, and have been known since ancient times to cultures all around the world. Early Dakota stories speak of the ancestors as being the Pleiades. The Hopis called the Pleiadians the 'Chuhukon', meaning those who cling together. They considered themselves direct descendents of the Pleiadians. Navajos named the Pleiades the 'Sparkling Suns', the home of the 'B-ack Go-'. The Iroquois pray to them for happiness. The Cree claim to have come to Earth from the stars in spirit form first and then became flesh and blood. Some Native Americans believed that all tribes in North America came from the Pleiades. That they were actually descendents and had been given a task by the Pleiadians to keep the Earth safe.

Eclipses mean changes, good and everything in-between. Eclipses always escort in significant events-- They intensely magnify and are living parenthesis forcing us to look at what we have turned our heads away from. Solar eclipses mean new beginnings, (May 20, 2012) and lunar eclipses (June 4, 2012) represent finishing things. These are very powerful Eclipses each with there own gifts and own set of rules. As the Pleiadian stellar connection renews itself, new crystalline geometries will be birthed that compliment the existing light connection.

I am Pleiadian of origin. I am feminine of nature and I am love as are you.

My energy, my light and my truth is needed at this time and at this place.

You will feel my presence as I touch you for you all are contained within my heart as we speak light to light, heart to heart, and truth to truth. It is important for you as humans to see the beauty in your life, in your day, and in your physical being. You spill so much life force being angry at the way you look the way your life has been, and the cards that you have been dealt. You look at each other with pointed thoughts and sharp words. Your eyes go green and your heart grows cold as you view another who has obtained a little more light, a little more beauty, and a little more prosperity not because they were born with it, but because they have the gift and ability to see those beautiful qualities in others.

The only way to claim your beauty, your wealth, your health, and your love is to see it in others. For the world mirrors your own reflection. If you do not feel worthy and prosperous, you see that in your own reflection. It is important to address and see the magic of someone winning your lottery games. Congratulate them energetically and send them love as they have energetically earned this monetary gift. See your stock market balancing itself rising in value. See the true energetic value of your home and your car.

Do not focus on depreciation but instead focus on appreciation. Allow what you have ownership of to gain value through you. You receive value when you see the value of others. You gain your beauty when you see the beauty of others. You gain wealth when you rejoice in the good fortune of others. For their good fortune means that your good fortune is right around the next corner, the next thought. Every minute of every day you too shall be blessed if you quietly bless others.

The world reflects your every thought. If you are attracting those who are down in the dumps, sad and desperate, look at your own vibration and make some corrections. Change the way you see the world and you will change yourself. Compliment others on their beauty. The inhabitants of Earth have stopped complimenting each other, honoring each other and it shows in earth's aura. Gain entrance to the kingdom of light through valuing everything on earth. Value your light and your life and the monumental creation that you are. You are a singular creation of the house of light. The Creator has never created another species like you. That is why you are given charge over the a-gels, because you are grand in preparation. You are grand in thought and the heart's desires of the Creator are placed within your body mind and spi-it.

Everything the earth experiences, you experience as well. Your destiny is greater than any other creation upon earth. It is time to prepare your heart to receive more love. A love that is so deep and so big that the sky is jealous for it has never seen such vastness. The palpitations within your heart are the breaking down the walls as the light enters. I have gathered you into my heart and now we are one again. I am Pleiadian of origin.

RESETTING YOUR KARMA

As received by Gillian MacBeth-Lout-an

We come forth from the light and the place that has always existed as Light

We come forth from what has always been the Light within the Light. We have existed before you were a thought in Creation. We will exist after your blue green sphere has turned into a star and shed her earthen cloak. You hold memories of US within your genetic encodings. We are the Pleiadian Counsel of One and each one of us is aligned within a global and crystalline grid point at a sa-red entrance and exit somewhere on Earth. We align with what has been held holy long before the Earth was birthed. We align with what was holy even before your solar system existed. We align with that which can never be destroyed.

Throughout time and space, you have ventured into new degrees and experiences of self. You have ventured into placements of time where you have slipped as a sailors knot in and out of episodes of nature. You exist simultaneously in a multi-dimensional flux and fashion. You have forgotten the rules and how to play the game as you walk in and out of time, in and out of love, and in and out of light. All of these experiences both the good and the bad, come forth to show you in precise manner exactly what you need to address within yourself, in order to become more of what the universe asking you to become.

Within you is a programmed genetic coding to seek.

You are known universally as the Seekers. You ask questions when others do not even bother to think down that path. You strive to remember where you have come from, you seek the true oneness of love, that lives as a singular event within your heart. You look for that Oneness in the eyes of all that you meet. Time dances around you, winding and unwinding in such exactitude that a time-teamster would be jealous. Imagine all the cogs in the wheels that turn in each one of your existences to create events that open possibilities that you had not before entertained. Imagine a curtain being lifted allowing you to see the inner workings of every human heart you meet. As you move into these time events you will see the many deceptions each person wears, the many shoulds and should not's that they still wrap around themselves as a cloak of invisibility. These new time lines ask you to not be afraid to see what is a global truth, a personal truth, a universal truth.
