This talks about many people who have been using pot.

What is this hair-raising evidence about the presence of AlienUFO?

We are talking about UFOs, Unidentified Freak-ng Objects, but that is ultimately like talking about some other being's (flying) cars, and not that being as such. You would not confuse a Porsche with its driver. But given our cultural obsession with machines, and yes girls, mostly by males, we seem to actually be more interested in their gear than their, uhmmm, philosophy, or favorite recipes, or even their guitar amplifiers. UFO's as alien flying cars leave only a few possibilities to sort out the cognitive dissonance they cause in reasonably awake humans. It may be true in some, and not true in other cases. Remember, it's a zoo out there and a jungle in here.

- 1) These UFO's are somehow steered, usually rather intelligently, but there is no-body inside (e.g. the glowing orbs; not spaceships with, say, bunks, toilets, and leisure lounges)
  - 2) They are (alien-) manned machines: the accepted General Understanding-- in itself, an oxymoronic word combination,
  - 3) Them UFO's are not machines as we know them, but time-travel or interdimensional-travel devices; like a cross between Honda Antigrav and an Apple TimePad
  - 4) They are a combination of factors such as those three above, or a bit of everything, depending on the case, or whatever: which we can not comprehend with our pea brains.
- This is a bit academic, because the vast body of evidence indicates that UFO's and aliens travel and often appear together, usually the latter ones inside the former. Since we only know that we know almost nothing, let's put the following conclusion away in a safe place:

Aliens and UFO's are somehow related

AlienUFO is the most important topic of our time, perhaps the most important topic of humanity. While most of us would probably be more interested in those aliens who are driving these UFO's, and rather recklessly so, ignoring G-force, some people at so-called high levels are more interested in their flying cars. They want that UFO, and they want it badly, to go and arm it with something nasty. They would do anything to get the technology, and they did. The story is, and I am getting ahead of myself but that can easily be reversed in time, that ... the first deal that was proposed, in modern times, between the Tall Whites, or Nordics, and the Am-ricans, was not good enough for the Ameri-ans. The America-s were told, in a nutshell, that their overall attitude s-cked a lot. That these n-kes were a big mistake, something like giving machine guns and 10,000 rounds of ammunition to the d-ugged mad monkeys at the zoo before the gates open on Sunday. That the planet was being treated like there was a spare one somewhere. And that antigravity tech, and hence f-ee energy, could and likely would be abused by humans. In a word: not now, maybe later. And that was what the generals wanted to hear from the drivers of these ultra-slick flying cars. So they told Eis-nhower to say no. But ... another deal was apparently made to get the technology to build those flying cars to arm them with nasty things and stay as the top dog, and also to go to places that Einstein said they couldn't. Einsteinism is one of the major scientific frauds that conceals the physics which allow for antigravity, time travel, and scaring the h-ll out of rednecks. In another optional scenario, the much-desired antigravity technology was back-engineered from crashed saucers (Roswell and others), no real deal as such involved here. Or, another variation, as some people suggest: the technology was harvested from a purposefully, sacrificially crashed saucer (same Roswell case).

Some have noticed that the Roswell Incident happened at very specific coordinates at a particular time. Numerology, Gematria, Cabala and Magic play into this, and quite heavily. In 1947, Roswell was also the only place in the world which had nuclear weapons, another interesting fact because there is the argument that UFO's started to appear en masse after the first atomic bomb explosions.

There is no bigger swamp than AlienUFO, so let's try to stay inside our hovercraft at all times. How to do this? Don't ask why. That is never a good question with AlienUFO, despite your natural urge to do it anyway. Resist that urge. Ask anything, but not why. Because the answer is ... who knows? Keep an open mind but don't let your brain fall out. Be as skeptical as you can, but do not discard arcane bits of information or perspective just because you are not familiar with them. Because it is all stranger than you can suppose, and all you can do is hang on to your knickerbockers.

WTF factors: some POTUS, some Astronauts, some Spilled Beans
At least two residents The United States have spoken in public about AlienUFO.

Of others yes we know that they grew hemp, way back when, which is quite interesting in itself. US Presidents include Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, Jackson, Taylor, Pierce, Lincoln, Kennedy, Carter, Clinton, Bush, and Satoro.

Clinton of course claimed that he did not inhale, and judging from his keen talent for explaining away global sex, we must assume he didn't. I mean, he did. Would he, uh, like? What did he say? What was the question? Was he stoned?

You would think that when you mix UFO's, Aliens, presidents, pot and secrets, you get something interesting. As long as you inhale. See? See how they hide the most fun stuff from you? Get off your fiction fixes, people. Reality is the ultimate high. You just stay nice and sober and let the presidents do that one. Astronauts in particular have been prone to AlienUFO beans getting spilled, and it was not due to zero gravity. They had both feet on the ground when they spilled things. Listen to what they had to say. They are known to be sober men who most definitely did not grow, or smoke, hemp at work. Pay attention to the extremely reclusive Neil Armstrong's last sentence:
