Subject: Things That Are Being Done. Part 2 of 2. May 12, 2012.

Let's hope that nothing but good comes from this and no one gets hurt in the process.

This case may have started as a matter of principle for Michael T-llinger against STD B-nk, but it has escalated to such a degree that every South African and everyone in the world could be affected, because a positive outcome will result in a major public policy shift and the changing of the laws that govern the ba-ks and bringing economic justice to the people.

Te-linger will argue that the lack of control and intervention by the MINISTER OF FINANCE has allowed the ban-s and the R-SERVE BAN- to do as they please with impunity and without recourse, and in the process have enslaved millions of honest, hard-working South Africans to a life of misery and debt through the banks❖ unconstitutional and unlawful activities.

This historic case will attempt to redress the imbalance that has taken place for centuries by the few that have been called the ban-ing e-ite. The Constitutional Court is the highest court on constitutional matters, its very foundation being the protector of human rights and its mandate to protect the people.

The Court is mandated to bring legislation in par with the constitutional framework principles and to develop common law principles. The legacy follows Nelson M-ndela❖s vision, that no matter who or what you represent, equality, justice and the people❖s voice shall be harmonised before an independent, unbiased judicial system founded on the principles of rights enshrined in the Constitution.

This case will be a challenge for the Constitutional Court, and Tel-inger trusts that it will make its findings properly, considering all the facts to redress the laws and do whatever it needs to do, to redress the hardship of the people caused by financial abuse.

Tellin-er appeals to every South African that has been harmed by their bank to join this important action, so that it truly represents millions of honest, hardworking and trusting citizens who have been unable to do so for themselves.

Thousands have been repeatedly frustrated by the invisible protective legal shield around the ba-ks, and the legal system that seems to support the b-nks.

❖Many people carry severe personal grudges against the -anks that have done them financial harm, but are powerless to do anything about it. ❖ Said Tell-nger

He added that ❖People are completely oblivious to how they have been conned and deceived by their ban-s about money and how it is created, but once they find out the terrible truth about how b-nks really operate and how they use our signature to profiteer on us, and how they make money out of thin air, they will be very a-gry and realise how important this action against the ba-ks is❖ he added.

Tellin-er urges each and every South African to read as much about this case as possible to inform themselves and to join the petition of signatures that will represent the rest of South Africa in the loudest voice ever presented at the Constitutional Court.

Please go to <http://www.thebigcase.co.za> and sign the petition page.

Details of the hearing will follow as soon as we have been allocated a date by the court. We will keep everyone informed on the above website.
