Beckley - Well I like to keep busy you know I also host and appear in low budget horror movies under the moniker of Mr Creepo

). And on the average my Global Communications puts out four books a month both in hard form and on Kindle. I also travel a bit and am on a good many talk shows including one hosted by William Shatner which is due to air on the History Channel in Canada later this year. I go back to the days of Long John Nebel and Barry Farber and the Amazing R-ndi whom most people don't realize had a show every night from midnight to dawn which dealt with the p-ranormal. Believe it or not! Then there is the weekly newsletter which fellow henchman Tim Swartz puts together so brilliantly

TIMOTHY GREEN BECKLEY - UFO & Pa-anormal Pioneer

Timothy Green Beckley has been described as the Hunter Thompson of UFOlogy.

Since an early age his life has more or less revolved around the par-normal. His grandfather saw the apparition of a headless horseman. His life was saved by invisible beings around the age of three. The house he was raised in was thought to be haunted. Beckley also underwent out of body experiences at age six.

And saw his first of three UFOs when he was but ten, and has had two more sightings since - including an attempt to communicate with one of these objects.

Tim grew up listening to the only all night talk show in the country that revolved around the strange and unexplained. Long John Nebel's guests included the early UFO c-ntactees who claimed to have visited other planets and built time machines in the desert. Tim was fascinated by everything that went bump in the night - or even in the daylight for that matter. Years later, Tim was to appear on Long John's show numerous times and over the years has been a frequent guest on hundreds of programs which have come and gone just like ghosts in the night.

Tim started his career as a writer early on - at age 14 he purchased a mimeograph machine and started putting out a small UFO newsletter. Over the years he has written over 25 books on everything from rock music to the secret M-12 papers. He has been a stringer for the national tabloids such as the E-quirer and editor of over 30 different magazines (most of which never lasted more than a couple of issues). His longest running effort was the newsstand publication UFO UNIVERSE which went for 11 years. Today he is the president of Inner Light/Global Communications and editor of the Con-piracy Journal and Bizarre Bazaar.

He is one of the few Americans ever to be invited to speak before closed door meetings on UFOs presided over by the late Earl of Clancarty at the House of Lords in England. He visited Loch Ness in Scotland while in the UK and went home with a belief that Nessie was somehow connected with dragons of mythology as well as strange discs engraved on cathedrals and ghostly phenomenon.

The Inner Light Publications and Global Communications' catalog of books and video titles now number over 200, including the works of Tim Swartz, T. Lobsang Rampa, Commander X, Brad Steiger, John Keel, Tracy Twyman, Wendelle Stevens and a host of many other authors. His own best sellers include Our Alien Planet, Strange Saga, Subterranean Worlds Inside Earth, John Lennon - We Knew You

As the horror movie host Mr Creepo Beckley has made numerous films including Skin Eating Jungle Vampires and Blood Sucking Vampire Freaks.

What Events Occur When a Species Is on the Cusp of E-olving?
By Diane T-ssman

The answer to the question above, we don't know. If we are dealing with a mentally ev-lved species like Homo sapiens, we really do not know!

The process of evo-ution is not in conflict with re-igious teachings such as intelligent design, when you think about it. Evol-tion is at its heart, a mysterious process which insures that the life force will continue in one kind of life-form, and will be snuffed out in another species of life-form. If the life-form is chosen to continue, it is also "promised" that it will change (e-olve), thus having a chance at future survival, too.

In intelligent design, an intelligence some might call G-d, favors some species, snuffs out others. It blesses those life-forms who are chosen to continue with the promise of change which insures they have a chance at future survival, too.

So, I don't understand the controversy between evolu-ion and intelligent design. I also see some problems with the traditional examples of evol-tion (similar to the illustration above), and I tend to credit Earth, the living, sentient planet, not -od, if I look at this subject through the prism of the intelligent design theory. Everyone has his or her own perception, and I hope not to offend anyone regarding -volution vs. intelligent design, that's not the point of this article.

The question: What events occur in the perception of a species which is about to ev-lve? I assume that hundreds of years before the evoluti-nary change became established, a few members of the species would perceive events and perhaps beings, which the old species in general could not perceive.

As the years moved along, thousands of the old species would begin perceiving in this new way. Finally, in, say, 1947, there would be a flying saucer flap. Yes, I am proposing that perhaps we perceive UFOs and their occupants because we are creating them, or at least beginning to perceive them, because we are ev-lving into a new hominid species. Again!

Just a quick, perhaps silly example: Your dear cat walks all over your computer keyboard. This is very frustrating because not only you are trying to type, but cat hairs are not good for the keyboard nor the computer itself. But does the dear cat really perceive your keyboard at all? Your cat knows there is space there to walk with a slight up-rise from the desk itself. It does note that the human spends a lot of time pounding this space with human-fingers which should be petting cat.

So, for thousands of years, a few of us have suddenly perceived more than the starry skies. By "us" I don't mean that those who spot UFOs are superior to the rest of us, because human consciousness is probably a mass morphic EM field, so most times it is a random glitch in the EM field which allows a more complete (higher) perception of the skies than most humans see as they still march to the old human consciousness.

Yes, some people do become seekers of sp-ritual knowledge and perhaps they do lead the way in human evo-ution, but that's not the point of this article, either.

My question: Are at least some UFO occupants created by Homo sapiens' vast, insatiable need to ev-lve? Or, a variation: Are UFO occupants being created by the process of evoluti-n itself? Are UFO occupants falling out of the evo-utionary egg? Who really knows what the force of evol-tion is and what it creates? Or how it creates?

It seems all the natural world has this prime directive to Evo-ve or D- e! However, humans are strange because of our advanced intellect and spir-t ual needs. The animal world has wonderful intelligence too and spir-tuality, but it is in balance, whereas humans are restless, aggressive beings who seem out of balance with their own planet.

I realize many hominid species disappeared and do not seem to be the actual fore-bearers of Homo sapiens, but others were our ancestors, and my point is, do we know what/who each hominid species began to perceive once the pressure of evolut-on set in?

Apparently, as each humanoid species evo-ves over millions of years, it begins to have "access" to a more complicated perception available within the EM morphic field. Thus Homo sapiens has the where-with-all to develop computers, and rockets to the moon, whereas earlier humanoid forms just couldn't perceive these things. He/she could not dream of them, thus bring them into being.

Whether evo-ution allows a species to perceive more of the cosmos, or the species actually creates "more" within the cosmos, who knows?
